

Opportunity

ONE of the narrowing and restricting material beliefs which would rob us of our heritage of good is the belief in limited opportunity. In fact many people believe that opportunity comes but once in a lifetime, and that if it is not grasped, life for them is a failure.

To those whose sphere of usefulness seems cramped and circumscribed, or whose environment appears restricted, dull, colorless, the study of the life of Joseph should prove interesting. He had some very gloomy and restricting experiences. However, he did not entertain resentment, but in every experience made use of his opportunity to prove the power of God. Thus, his spiritual thinking lifted him to become a very great statesman. The spiritual qualities he reflected, even when in the pit and in the prison, prepared him for that position of great usefulness and service to which he attained in Egypt, and through which he had a wider opportunity to use his God-given qualities of courage, wisdom, resourcefulness, mercy, and forgiveness.

Opportunity is ever present. The opportunity for useful service and happy, joyous living is never absent. What we need is to pray for vision, and, like Joseph, to use our present circumstances as steppingstones to a higher sense of true living and service. If, instead of beating vainly against restricting circumstances or environment, we open our thought to the unfolding of spiritual ideas and the facts of real being, which alone cast out the false beliefs of restricting environment and lack of opportunity—if we put off limited modes of thought and let that Mind which is infinite divine Love govern our thinking, then we shall find imprisoning beliefs of cramped environment giving place to wider, fuller opportunities.

Jesus said, "I can of mine own self do nothing," and, "The Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works." He understood the spiritually scientific relationship which exists between God and man. As the understanding of God as Life is in some measure gained through Christian Science, opportunities for a fuller life will be seen to be our inherent inalienable right.

Another false belief which would claim to limit opportunity is that of age. People are apt to think that when they reach what is termed advanced middle age their opportunities for usefulness are rapidly diminishing, and they begin to look on their life as nearly over. Moses at the age of eighty years might have thought that his opportunity for useful work had terminated; but during his forty years' retirement which followed his too impetuous defense of his countrymen, he was being prepared for his great life-work. He advanced in spiritual understanding to the realization of God as Mind, Spirit, and at the age of eighty his mission was unfolded to him. For forty years more he was engaged in the no light task of leading the children of Israel through the wilderness toward the promised land. Mary Baker Eddy says of him (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, p. 200), "Moses advanced a nation to the worship of God in Spirit." What an achievement! And of him the Bible records that at the age of one hundred and twenty "his eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated."

When this great mission was revealed to him, the false arguments of diffidence and reluctance to face the responsibility presented themselves to Moses; it was only when he relied on God's promise to be with him and teach him what to say and to do that his false sense of responsibility and diffidence was replaced by true humility. So he went forward in his work, wherein he was given the opportunity to use the spiritual quality of meekness and receive the revelation of moral law.

On page 246 of Science and Health Mrs. Eddy says: "Except for the error of measuring and limiting all that is good and beautiful, man would enjoy more than three score years and ten and still maintain his vigor, freshness, and promise. Man, governed by immortal Mind, is always beautiful and grand. Each succeeding year unfolds wisdom, beauty, and holiness."

The grandeur and glory of life are stretching out before us in the eternity of good. It is not opportunity which is lacking, for God is the Giver. It is the ability to perceive it for which we must pray. Often fear and care form a mist, but as Truth clears the vision we are enabled to see opportunity as ever at hand.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Ask for Your Auction Bucks

To Be Used in Place of Money at Cottage Grove's First

Free Merchandise Auction

Saturday, June 15

(Sponsored by The Sentinel)

COMPLETE EXPLANATION

Various stores of the city are giving Auction Bucks with every purchase of 50 cents or more. Each store participating will give a merchandise prize or a service order that will be auctioned off June 15. No money will be accepted at the auction. Bidders can purchase the prizes with Auction Bucks only. The auction will be conducted the same as any regular auction and bidders can go as high as they like. The more Auction Bucks a person has the more prizes he will be able to get, which makes it worth while to trade at the stores in your home town and get your Auction Bucks.

Auction Bucks not used at the first auction can be used at future auctions.

The Auction Bucks are free, so ask for them
