GET YOUR MONEY BACK

How would you like to run a wanted in The Sentinel and then get your money back? That is exactly the proposition we are going to make you, but there is a little catch in it. You'll get your money back if you'll ask for it and say that you got no reply to your ad. No questions will be asked. Your word will be sufficient. Sentinel wantads are such certain result getters that The Sentinel is willing to make this guaranty of results for its issue of July 4.

Train Bird to Catch Fish

One of the cleverest of all divers is the cormorant, which can be trained to catch the fish for its owner, and is often used in this way by Chinese. In Britain cormorants live in colonies, usually on small rocky islands. The haunts are not pleasant places to visit, for an appalling stench surrounds them. The nests are built of seaweed, which soon decays in the hot sun; pools of sea water are formed in hollows by storms and soon become thick and green.
