True Ghost Stories

By Famous People

By WILL IRWIN
Author.

"THE 'Ghost of Washington Square' gave me many a night filled with clammy chills at No. 59 Washington Square," related Will Irwin, who is known to be such a shrewd and canny and skeptical reporter that he was asked to investigate and expose the seances of Signora Eupia Paladino, the notorious psychic. "I might have attributed my nights of horror at No. 59 to a disordered digestion," continued Mr. Irwin, "had it not been that everyone who occupied my apartment had a similar ghostly experience."

"One morning at three o'clock I was awakened out of a sound sleep by a consciousness of some one bending over me. Three mornings in succession—always at the same hour and always without sound or sight of anyone, I was thus awakened. My nerves became unstrung. I moved to a hotel. Then ashamed at my submission, I moved back to my flat. But I slept with every gas jet burning. The phenomenon recurred, but each time with less intensity."

"During an absence from New York I turned over my apartment to James Hopper. Mr. Hopper was wrathful, rather than grateful, for the shelter of my apartment. He had been made uncomfortable by the same visitation that I had experienced there. Moreover, he had bravely, in the dark, dared the ghost to an open encounter. The challenge had not been accepted."

"Samuel Hopkins Adams heard the story of my weird experience and he wanted to investigate matters under my troubled roof. Despite the fact that he was forewarned and that he is such an alert observer, he could only bear incoherent witness to the visitation."

"Later, while I was on a holiday, two elderly ladies who were former neighbors of mine in New England, asked to use my apartment during their two weeks' visit to New York. A friend of mine was to call for them early the second day of their visit to show them about town. He found them standing on the doorstep, with valises in hand. They wouldn't stay another minute in Mr. Irwin's noisy, fearful apartment!"

"I could see only one thing to do. I would give up No. 59 Washington Square. It only estranged me from myself and my friends."

"I freed myself of the apartment and heard no further reports of it until one day a friend of mine who keeps a shop on the south side of the square told me that an old gentleman who wandered into her place had become reminiscent about the early days when Washington Square had been the potter's field, and when the gallows had stood upon the place of the present arch."

"Then dolefully pointing to my former abode, No. 59, she remarked, 'and that used to be the morgue.'"

THE LAURELS OF TRUE LEADERSHIP

In any business or profession are not easily or hastily won, but are the cumulative results of a constant, persistent and undeviating adherence to the underlying principles of honest, efficient service. Dr. Sherman W. Moody has rendered, to the good people of Eugene and tributary country, unexcelled optical service of outstanding character and worth for the past twenty years.

This is now the only complete optical service, without change of name or ownership for the past twenty years in the state of Oregon. Eighteen competitors have come here and gone again or passed on during that time. There is a reason for this continuous success; it doesn't just happen.

Thousands of people in Eugene and other parts of Oregon, owe their present comfortable vision and health to this superior skill and persistent endeavor.

AS DELICATE AS THE HUMAN EYE

are the modern and scientific instruments with which we detect and correct every defect of the human vision. With adequate experience in the use of these instruments acquired by many years of practice that makes perfect, the visual defects and handicaps can be read like a book and the truth about the eyes can be recorded with a wonderful degree of accuracy, instead of too much guesswork as in the old system of refraction.

They safeguard your most valuable possession and unerringly indicate the correct refractive formula and ascertain the special grinding of every lens to correct any defect or impairment of your sight. A thorough scientific eye analysis and moderate prices.
