RADIO RAY HAS THIS TO SAY:

Howdy Folks: Have you noticed how glibly some statesmen talk of war?

Samson used the jawbone of an ass to stop a war. Now days that weapon is used to start one.

After thinking it over, we can't seem to get excited about the idea of living to a ripe old age.
Even if a man did live to be a hundred, he'd look and act like it.

We are excited about the arrival of the 1938 radio season. We will have really fine merchandise and we will put a very reasonable price on the price tags, too. Watch for announcement.

Nature balances itself. The lean live longer and the fat live wider.

Don't itch for what you want—scratch for it.

And let us close with the suggestion that babies are the interest coupons attached to the bonds of matrimony.

H. W. Lombard Lands Salmon on Fly Rod

The past week end brought more than its quota of fish stories, but to Herbert W. Lombard goes the prize —he landed a 22 pound salmon on a fly rod, after battling the fish an hour and a half while trout fishing above Oakridge late Sunday afternoon.

Herb does his share of salmon fishing, but salmon was most decidedly not what he was thinking about when the battle started Sunday, and there seems to be some question as to which was the more surprised, Herb or the salmon, when the fish was hooked.

Clyde Roberts and Bob Savage got their thrills Sunday in a different fashion—they were caught in the hail storm and near cloudburst that lashed the Cascades, and were plenty wet when they reached their car, nearly 15 miles from where they were fishing when the storm struck.

Bill Painter was delayed several hours by the trees that blocked the McKenzie highway following the same storm.

C. E. Umphrey and N. E. Compton, who returned Friday from a camping trip in the Cascades fought a lengthy battle—with mosquitoes, and report the "skeeters" were as large as the fish that got away and much more plentiful.

Carl Rynearson, and son Robert, and daughter Janet, fishing in the Rogue at Gold Beach, landed one Chinook and reported the loss of another.

Whiskey Lost 40 Years Ago, Found

Some bearded, trail-weary packer using the old Oakland trail into the flourishing Bohemia mining district over 40 years ago probably cursed his luck when arriving in camp to find that his cherished Bourbon whiskey, a great preventive and cure for snake-bite, was missing.
At least a forestry maintenance crew working on the old trail unearthed a quart bottle recently while removing brush from the trail. The bottle gave the appearance of age, the label proclaimed the spirits to be the Kellogg brand which is little known today, and reports credit the beverage with having that smooth finish that only age can give.

The forestry crew is "brushing out" about two miles of the old Oakland trail which leads into Bohemia from Oakland by way of the head of Mosby creek. The crew will then rebuild a way trail. They expect to work in that district a month.

C. of C. May Sponsor Musical Talent at KGW Dedication

The chamber of commerce may sponsor the presentation of local musical talent at the dedication of KGW's new aerial tower in Portland early in August if a suggestion made at the chamber's meeting Tuesday is acted upon favorably by the entertainment committee, of which L. C. Schroeder is chairman. The plan suggested and referred to the committee is to prepare a musical program featuring such local talent as the Hill Billies and Neta Premazzi, accordionist.

Committees reported on progress being made in preparation for the annual south Lane county 4-H club fair to be held here August 20 and 21.

In the absence of President C. J.
Kenn, John Pennington, first vice president, presided. R. C. Kuehner, county club agent, was a guest.
