

Homemakers To Attend Camp At Lake Cleawox

About 45 women are expected to attend the annual Lane county homemakers camp at Lake Cleawox August 3 to 8, according to Miss Lois Lutz, county home demonstration agent, and registrations for the camp will be taken at Miss Lutz's office up to Saturday night. Miss Belle Burkholder is one from this district who is planning to attend.

Plans for the camp are about complete. The program will include instruction in beaded rug pattern making and other crafts and Miss Eileen Perdue, extension specialist in clothing at the state college, will be on hand to teach these crafts. The entire staff, including a cook and helpers, has been engaged.

Hiking on the beach and over sand dunes, swimming and other outdoor activities have been arranged for. A library of desirable books will be maintained.

The registration fee for the six-day camp will be $4.50. Those who wish to do so may pay part of this fee in produce. Up to $1.50 will be accepted in produce.
