Bamboo Arithmetic
Japanese arithmetic is done by boys and girls in school on a kind of slate made of bamboo rods. Numbers are represented by colored beads which easily slip back and forth as one counts. Written letters and numbers are made with a fat brush and black paint. The brush has a fine point for delicate parts of letters and much practice is needed to make the alphabet with its intricate design.

Leaf Skeletons for Scrap Book
To make leaf skeletons place the leaves in a little rain water to which a trace of yeast has been added. Allow the fermentation to proceed until the membranous portion becomes soft and easily washed away in a stream of water. Bleach by dipping for a few minutes in a strong aqueous solution of sulphurous acid gas, or exposing them, while moist, in a box filled with the vapor of burning sulphur.

Georgian Bay Is Large
Georgian bay covers a lot of territory, both wet and dry. This body of water is so big that it might well be regarded as another of the Great Lakes. But its shoreline is uniform. It is rocky throughout its length; mountains can usually be seen, sometimes distant, sometimes close at hand; there are thousands of islands.

Regarded as Auto Inventor

In Europe, Karl Benz, who died in 1929, is regarded as the inventor of the automobile. When he began his first experiments in 1883-84, he had to do so secretly for any hint that he was occupying his time with horseless vehicles would have brought a stop to whatever slender financial support he had, even if it would not have exposed him to the risk of being an engineering crack or a harmless lunatic.

A Man's Duty

Can anyone say on any day that he has done his whole duty; that he has done all that he ought to have done; that he has uttered no hasty word, entertained no wrong thought, or passed no harsh judgment upon his fellow-man?

Many Deaths Preventable

About 1,300,000 die in the United States each year, and of these deaths it is said that almost 600,000 may be classed as preventable by proper medical treatment.
