Premiums for Housewives.

State fair officials announced this week that the housewife has an opportunity to compete for premiums in six different classes of the canning and preserving line. Premiums total nearly $50 in cash and a variety of merchandise. Four specials are also offered. The regular classes give awards for the following: Canned fruits in glass jars; canned meats or fish in glass jars; fruit jellies; jams and preserves; canned vegetables and pickles.

In addition first, second and third prizes are offered by corporations and companies.

"Housewives who plan now for their entrance in the annual competition with Oregon's best will stand a better opportunity of winning one of the awards," says Leo Spitzbart, manager. Further information may be obtained by writing to the Oregon State Fair, Salem.

Bayonets Date From 1690

The muskets used in 1521 had match locks. Bayonets were introduced, attached to the guns, in 1690.

THREE MAJOR EVENTS HELP MAKE NEWS FOR NEWSPAPER DESK MAN

News developments came thick and fast Sunday in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Baker, North Bend. The day began at 1:20 a. m. when an 8½-pound son was born to the couple at Wesley hospital. He has been named David William. Celebrating the arrival of the future journalist, Baker cut six strokes from his best previous mark at Coos country club when he toured the course in 39, six better than his previous mark of 45.

Third event in the day's doings was an announcement by Sheldon F. Sackett, publisher of the Coos Bay Times for which Baker has been city editor for a year. Mr. Sackett announced the promotion of Mr. Baker from the position of city editor to that of managing editor, effective today (Sunday.) —Coos Bay Daily Times.

The Coos Bay Times may well add another important event to the three already mentioned, as the new arrival at the Baker home is the first grandson of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Crabb of this city, parents of Mrs. Baker. Mrs. Crabb and daughter Elizabeth, twin sister of Mrs. Baker, motored to North Bend Monday to visit the Bakers and David William.
