

Loan Foreclosures by Government Take Nearly 80,000 Homes

Rounding out five years as a home mortgage lender, the Federal Government now owns nearly 80,000 dwellings, about half of which were acquired through foreclosure in the past year, according to an Industrial Press Service report.

The Home Owners' Loan Corporation, which jumped into the real estate business in 1933 to save homes threatened with foreclosure in the depression, was five years old recently. It loaned more than $3,000,000,000 to about 1,000,000 home owners from June, 1933, through June, 1936.

HOLC attaches said fewer foreclosures have occurred recently. In April 3,253 foreclosures were instituted. This is 491 less than March and far down from the peak around 8,000 a month in the fall of 1936.

About 30,000 borrowers have repaid loans in full; about 750,000 are making "satisfactory" payments; 115,000 are still making payment "that cause us to have hope," while about 33,000 have repayment records indicating a "doubtful outcome."
