

Big Oil Refinery Destroyed by Fire

LINDEN, N. J.—A roaring fire, punctuated by more than a dozen deafening explosions, raged for more than seven hours through the 10-acre Cities Service oil refining plant here yesterday before being brought under control shortly before 8 p. m. (EST).

Before an army of firemen recruited from three states could master the blaze, fifteen huge storage tanks, each holding approximately 350,000 gallons of gasoline, naphtha, kerosene or oil had exploded and a vast ocean of burning oil and gasoline surged about the bases of other tanks which miraculously were not ignited by the terrible heat of the blaze, which could be felt uncomfortably more than a mile from the scene.

The plant is situated a mile from this town. Nevertheless, the heat was so intense, burning embers were scattered so widely and the shock of the successive explosions was so great that shopkeepers and residents here locked up their properties and fled to more distant parts in fear of their lives.

Damage is estimated from one to five million dollars.

F. F. A. BOYS GIVE PROGRAM AT LIONS CLUB

Three F. F. A. boys of the local high school with their teacher, H. L. Williamson, were guests of the Cottage Grove Lion's club today noon and gave a very interesting program on the F. F. A. organization, its meaning and purpose.

Mr. Williamson introduced each speaker. Dean Chapman explained what the F. F. A. organization was; Wendell Small told of the stock judging contests, their value in training members and points on which judging was based. Lester Harris talked on the annual F. F. A. convention at Corvallis and the features of the program at the annual meetings.

Sportsmen Find Many Activities Calling

Local sportsmen were in a quandry over the week-end to know how to spend their all too brief vacations. Rumors were current that the silvers were running in the Umpqua, there was the pheasant season nearing its end, with most hunters short of their limit, and deer tags yet to be filled in many cases. As near as can be learned, the sportsmen divided their activities about evenly, and some doubled up on both pheasant and deer hunting with some success.

Several nice catches of silvers and salmon trout were reported from the lower Umpqua.

Kelly Cooper, who had used his first deer tag on one of the largest Blacktails killed in this section, used his second tag on a nice three point, killed with a 22 pistol, as Kelly was on his way to work, it is reported.

The next week end will find the possible activities even more numerous, for the duck season will be open. In this connection Postmaster N. J. Nelson states that the required duck stamps are available at the post office at $1 each. Occasional flocks of geese and ducks have made the scattergun hunters anxious for the season's opening. Ducks and geese are reported unusually plentiful in southern Oregon, and local hunters hope for a better supply than usual on their favorite ponds and rivers. The pheasant season closed in Lane county Tuesday, with most of the local hunters wondering what became of the 475 birds released in this section since the close of the season last year. "Sooners" are getting more blame than predators, for the scarcity of birds here.

A. F. L. Sidetracks "Hot" Resolution at Houston Yesterday

HOUSTON, TEXAS—In a surprising rebellion of the rank-and-file membership, delegates to the annual American Federation of Labor convention here refused yesterday to adopt a report of the powerful resolutions committee which attacked administration policies and declared the nation is drifting into socialism.

The report, which called upon labor to put a stop to current trends before the United States "ceased to be a democracy," evoked opposition so strong that before the battle ended even President William Green agreed the document should be side tracked.

Rejection of a resolutions committee statement has occurred before, but such action is so rare as to constitute a major revolt by the membership against domination by federation leaders.

Opponents of the report won the day when, on motion of Cleveland Delegate William McSorley, the document was referred to the executive council for study. Although technically the report might yet be acted upon, such action actually ended any chance of its adoption at this meeting.

Candidates in Midst Of State Campaign

Gubernatorial candidates are busy campaigning in the various sections of the state as time draws near for the general election.

Chas. Sprague, republican nominee for governor, is visiting sections in southwestern Oregon this week. Before coming here Mr. Sprague planned to visit Klamath Falls, Ashland, Medford, Grants Pass, Roseburg, Marshfield and North Bend, according to his manager, Robert O. Boyd. Mr. Sprague is advocating more adequate pensions for the aged and a program that will bring peace between labor and industry.

Henry Hess, democratic nominee, speaking in Salem last Thursday evening, advocated the removal of the pauper's oath from the old age pension law and the development of our natural resources through government aid. "The Willamette valley is in line for great and immediate development, the U. S. engineers have given approval of this important project and I shall do all in my power to hasten the starting of this work," he said.

FIRST AID CLASSES BEING ORGANIZED, RED CROSS

Continued from Page 1 classes in the Junior high school with sixty-two pupils in the 7th and 8th grades enrolled.

Mr. Burden said Monday if the response was great enough he would organize a class of adults to meet at the city hall. If you would like to enroll, phone your enrollment to Lloyd Griggs, local chairman.

Deadline Near on Filing Applications Farm Tenant Loans

Lane county tenant farmers expecting to file application for farm purchase loans under the Bankhead-Jones tenant act, have only two days left, reports Harry Bower, county Farm Security Administration Supervisor, Broadway Building, Eugene.

With the deadline set for Saturday, October 15th, approximately forty applications have been filed with the county supervisor who serves as secretary of the county tenant committee. When applications are closed, they will be turned over to the county tenant committee composed of Frank B. Harlow, Eugene, chairman; Hans Nielsen, Eugene, and Allen P. Wheeler, Goshen.

The committee will examine all applications, appraise farms applicants propose to purchase and recommend applicants who have the character, ability and experience deemed necessary for successful farm ownership.

Loans will be limited and the allotment of $92,915 for Lane and Jackson counties is expected to provide for from six to eight tenants in Lane county to become farm owners during the fiscal year ending July 1, 1939.
