The Cottage Grove Lions will be playing a tough game Friday, when they meet the strong Sweethome eleven on Sweethome's field.

The Sweethome team has won from Philomath 14 to 0, Junction City 13 to 6, and Shedd 41 to 0.

All of the Lion team will be back with the exception of one, George Dugan.

Although meeting a team who has not been defeated as yet, the Lions should beat Sweethome by at least 6 points providing they show the pep and drive they did in the Philomath game.

According to statistics Cottage Grove has 46 points to their opponents 19. Sweethome has 68 points to their opponents 6.

Both teams are confident and good-spirited and it should be a well played game.

Mary Jane Smith and Marian Moore, two Cottage Grove graduates of '38, will receive the highest award in Girl Scouting, "The Golden Eaglet," at the armory Saturday night at 7:30. The public is cordially invited.

A short program will be given in connection with the award. As this is a special event, Mrs. MacGibbon, former leader, from Portland, will be here to present the awards.

The current problems class furnished entertainment for the assembly held Friday, October 14.

They dramatized the main events in the recent European crisis. Due to the absence of one of the cast, G. E. Batterson took the part of Adolf Hitler, in the presentation of Hitler's Nuremberg speech and the Four Power conference at Munich. The part of Mussolini was portrayed by Boyd Allen; Chamberlain, Edgar Skuzey; Daladier, Maurice Boykin; Mrs. Roosevelt, Lillian Geer; President Roosevelt, Harley Eastburn; Jan Syrovsky of Czechoslovakia, Harold Dudley; Representative of Russia, Marvin Harris and President Benes, Bob Boyce.

Marion Richards gave the summary of the effects of these speeches on the world.

Anna Marie Peterson served as reader of these events.

"Who makes every male's heart flutter just a little as she passes by, who has the most regal form in school, and who already wears her hair in halo style most befitting a queen?" "Why, Betty Jones, of course," said Loran Stiles, senior class president, last Friday when the carnival queen candidates were introduced. And the seniors rose in a body to confirm his statement by shouting, "Yea, Betty." But, Billy Spies, junior prexy, differs with Loran. He says the most queenly girl is Mildred Cox.

CONSERVATIVE FINANCE

"She's sweet sixteen and never been—carnival queen yet! But, you never can tell."

Still, George Dugan, sophomore president, boosts Pat Baldwin high, because he says, "Of everything, she's got it."

Well, well, well, what do we have next? Why, it's Harold Bauder, frosh prexy, with still another tale to tell. He pronounces Faye Nixon, the best. "She's very brilliant, being an All American Girl, and she's not bad to look at either."

What are we to do? There's just one solution. Cast your votes for your queen candidate, support your class to the top, and wait for results at the carnival Friday, October 28.

About thirty girls turned out for trio and octet tryouts last Thursday.

The following girls were selected: Senior girls trio, Betty Jones, Dorismae Blalock, and Patty Short; junior girls trio, Bernice Smith, Emma Lukens, and Gladys Lemley; sophomore girls trio, Pat Baldwin, Arlene Anderson, and Mae Anderson; girls' octet, Betty Jones, Pat Baldwin, Patty Short, Dorismae Blalock, Frances Hughes, Emma Lukens, Gladys Lemley and Lois Baldwin.

Miss Jelineck chose the following girls' sextet to sing at the carnival: Bernice Smith, Emma Lukens, Dorismae Blalock, Patty Short, Frances Hughes, and Lois Baldwin.

The boys' octet for the year includes: Billy Spies, Ray Randall, Mac Trask, Dick Smith, Donald Long, Loren Stiles, Wendell Small, and Dean Jackson.

The fifth period junior English class, under the supervision of Miss Dodson, elected officers for their English Club Thursday, October 13.

The officers are as follows: President, Alfred Montgomery; Vice President, Gladys Lemley; Secretary, Treasurer, Norval Bright; Program Chairman, Betty Adkins; Sergeant-at-arms, Paul Davenport.

The club meetings will be held every second and fourth Friday in each month. Two members in the class will be chosen to serve with the program chairman at each meeting to help prepare a program.

The program each time will be in keeping with the work the class is studying at that time.

Each member has donated a penny which will be used to buy a prize for the one selecting the best name for the club.

The Girls' League council met October 12, in room 8 of the high school with several new members attending for the first time, including Marian Richards, senior representative; Gladys Lemley, junior representative; and Margaret Monson, treasurer.

The carnival was the main topic of discussion. Committees for the girls league booth were chosen and are: decoration—Arlene Anderson, Betty McCoy, Anna Peterson, and Margaret Monson; hot dogs—Marian Richards and Gladys Lemley; coffee—Pat Baldwin and Peggy Sharpe; punch—Janet Peterson and Myrtle Kirchhofer; equipment—Jacie Morton and Mariam Ferrin. Suggestions were made as to what the booth might represent.

The council agreed to as Mrs. Turnipseed, of Eugene, to speak at the next girls' league assembly which will be in November. Arlene Anderson is program chairman. A girls league assembly will be held the first Friday each month.

The dues contest will begin October 19, and continue two weeks. The loser will give a party for the winners. The upper classes are working against the lower. A girl from each class is in charge of collecting the dues. They are: The freshman, Arleta Roberts; sophomore, Velma Wilson; junior, Gladys Lemley; senior, Marian Richards. Hurry! Hurry! Pay your dues so we can have a party.

If you feel that you don't know how to dress for certain occasions or that you don't know the shade of makeup to wear, or even how to spend your spare time, you would enjoy the Home Ec club this year, and really benefit by the meetings the program committee is to present, during the year.

At the first business meeting of the year, Wednesday, October 12, the girls decided that rather than volunteering on the different committees in club meeting, the girls will sing their names under the different committee headings for the year which the program committee will supply. Out of these the president will choose a chairman.

The following girls have been appointed chairmen of carnival committees: Decoration, Marcia Brund; selling, Martha Arnold; confetti sacking, Betty Chapman; milk nickles, Lois Hansen; carmel corn, Olive Gawley, candy, Emma Lukens; clean-up, Betty Adkins.

The Home Ec club boasts more volunteers for the clean-up committee than any other of the carnival committees.

Contest minded Myrel Glasgow and Maxine Ewing have the annual task of collecting the year's dues and the losing side will entertain the winning side at the first social meeting of the year, which may be a steak roast, a bicycle ride, a hike, or a bad taste party.

It looks like a busy year for the Home Ec club.

The Lettergirls held a meeting last Friday after school and appointed the following committees: Hiking, Betty Hopper and Virginia Allen; Entertainment, Lois Baldwin and Audrey Turner, and Membership, Lois Hansen and Martha Arnold.

An informal initiation was held Tuesday, as you probably noticed, and the following girls were initiated: Ethel Ann Newton, Martha Arnold, Hazel Wells, Maxine Currin, Helen Grace St. Elmo, Margaret Monson, Viola Harriman, and Dorothy Gierau.

The rules they had to obey were as follows: "You shall address Lettergirls with respect as 'Honorable Miss So and So.' Offer to carry any Lettergirl's book to her next class; the only trace of make-up to be worn is one red 'C' on forehead in red lipstick; you shall wear your hair parted in the middle and pinned tight to sides of head; you shall exchange one shoe with another initiate and wear it all day; use side entrance only next to grade school, going up and down all steps place both feet on each step; at noon bring Miss Button some bright colored leaves or flowers; you shall have no communication in any manner with opposite sex at any time during the day; you shall carry with you in the afternoon a supply of candy, gum or nuts to offer to any Lettergirl (and Miss Dodson) you shall meet; and any violation of above stated rules will bring severe punishment upon culprit as well as a performance before a public gathering."

A French club meeting was held Friday for the purpose of initiating the only new member, Julian Miller. The initiation was carried on in this manner. Julian was taken to the front of the room and blindfolded while one member of the club applied rouge and lipstick and another placed a wreath of flowers on his head. He then rolled his pant-legs up to his knees. When he met a member of the club in the hall he would salute them and call them "dear." At the end of the second the supervisor thought they were being hard on the "poor boy" and gave him permission to remove his make-up.

The French club voted to take the newspaper La Vie. A few French games were played before closing the meeting.

Mr. Grannis attended the State Principal's conference in Salem over the week-end.

Returning Thursday night from Klamath county, John and Carl Keibelbeck and Jack Bowden of Salem reported an absence of deer in Barnes valley where they hunted in company with Stanley Pieser of Klamath Falls. It is thought the lack of deer in that region is due to the mild weather, as the deer have no reason to leave the mountains and head for winter quarters in California.

The Makinson family from Black Butte recently moved into the Ernest Heaton house.
