Oregon Lambs Gain Reputation

BURNS, Ore.—Oregon lamb is fast gaining a national reputation in keeping with the recognized quality of Hood River apples and pears according to Davenport R. Phelps, western representative of the National Live Stock and Meat Board who is here at the annual convention of the Oregon Wool Growers.

"Lamb is one of Oregon's most important products," states Mr. Phelps. "The latest available statistics show that there are 2,144,000 sheep and lambs on Oregon farms, that the state leads 41 other states in the production of lamb with an estimated annual production of about 40 million pounds. Of especial interest, because of its bearing on the financial returns of the sheep industry, is the fact that in addition to supplying its own needs, 69 per cent of the lamb produced in Oregon is a surplus available for other states."

HONEY BEE INVALUABLE TO OREGON FARMERS

With more than $13,000,000 worth of seed, fruit and garden crops in Oregon depending almost entirely on the honey bee for pollination, importance of the 45,000 colonies of bees in Oregon cannot be overestimated, State Apilary Inspector A. Burr Black says in his annual report to Director J. D. Mickle of the state department of agriculture.

The three bee diseases of major importance, American foulbrood, European foulbrood and sacbrood, are all present in Oregon and in addition, poisoning from spray materials and from unknown sources is a serious problem for bee owners in some localities.

The total valuation of all the automobiles produced in 1930 was less than $5,000,000. The industry can now produce equivalent value in 15 hours.

Church Activities

SPECIAL LECTURE

Friday night, January 19th, at 7:30, there will be special lecture in the Seventh-day Adventist church in Cottage Grove. The lecture will be preceded by a moving picture on the war in Europe. This News Parade covers the war up to now. Startling scenes of mobilization of Britain, France, Poland and Germany—Americans feeling the danger zone—evacuation of women and children from Europe's capitals, Germany's lightning invasion of Poland and Poland striking back. First films ever made of battleships bombing a city. Most startling shots since "Hindenburg Explodes."

After the pictures T. Martin Cole of Eugene will speak on "The European Situation." Is civilization galloping to ruin? Will America be drawn into the great conflict? Where will it end? All are invited to come and see these pictures and hear this outstanding lecture.

OFFICERS MEET

The officers of the Methodist Junior League met at the home of Mrs. E. M. Tilton to make plans for the near future. They will have charge of the opening of the vespers service of the church next Sunday night. Those who will take part are Joyce Clark, Joan King, Marylou Thompson, Elsie Hagen, Dotty Ann Clark, Ross Adkins, Eugene Oard. All of the Leaguers will sing in a special number.

OYSTER SUPPER

Thirty-one men were present at the oyster supper given by the Men's Brotherhood Monday evening at the Methodist church. Fresh oysters, pie and coffee were served. John Markham was chief cook, N. E. Compton made the coffee and Fred Bosley, Jack Cation and Lowell Tedford waited tables. Following the supper, talks were given by the Rev. Gilbert Brown, retired minister, of Anlauf, and by Laymen G. B. Arnest, Albert Woodard and S. L. Mackin.

One of the illusions is that the present hour is not the critical decisive hour.—Emerson.

BREAD REDUCTIONS MADE

Reductions in the price of a pound and a half loaf of bread was made here Monday, which may be welcome news to many consumers, but not so good for the bakers. Retail prices of white and wheat pound loaves were reduced from ten to nine cents and the pound and a half loaf from fourteen to thirteen cents. The new price schedule went into effect in many Willamette valley communities, it was said. The reduction here was the result of action of the Lane county bakers association.

Local bakers said yesterday a reduction was made in the one size bread loaf only. The pound and a half loaf was reduced from fourteen to thirteen cents. The same reduction was effective in Eugene, they said.

FAIR MANAGER NAMED

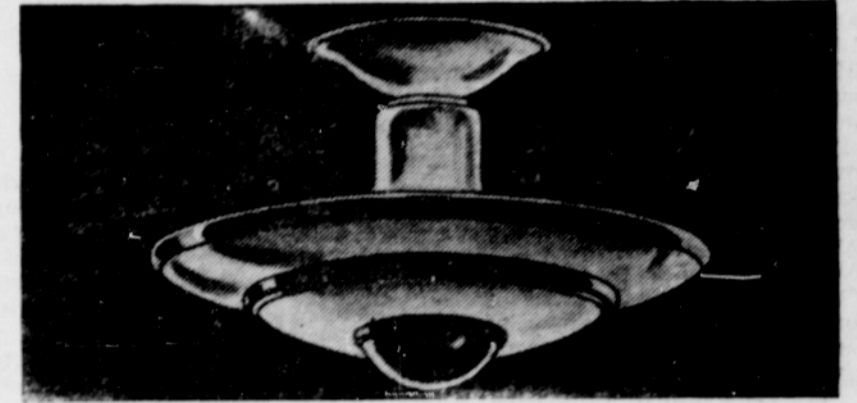

Allen Wheeler was again named manager of the 1940 Lane
