No 'K' in Latin

There was a letter K in the original Latin language, and it appears in the earliest Latin inscriptions. It was later dropped from the alphabet and replaced by C. The K does not appear in classical Latin except in the abbreviations for Kalandae and for the proper name Kaeso.

Nova Scotia in Old Scotia

When in Edinburgh visitors are surprised to learn that the Esplanade in front of the castle is legally Nova Scotia, having been so made three centuries ago so that newly appointed barons of Nova Scotia might take possession of their lands without crossing the ocean.

Travel Baskets on Italian Trains

At any important railway station in Italy the tourist can have put on the train for his journey the Cestino di Viaggio, which is a "travel basket" full of hot veal cutlet, or roast beef, vegetables, hot macaroni, bread, cheese, oranges, chocolate and a bottle of wine, all for less than 50 cents.

Home Cooking

As late as the 1850's, a number of the clipper ships that transported immigrants to the United States made the passengers provide and cook their own food. Many of them, having insufficient food, says Collier's Weekly, died of malnutrition.

Piano Guardianship

A piano is owned by one out of every six American families, according to a recent survey. Of these instruments, 40 per cent are between 15 and 60 years old.

Unique Table

The palace at Heddenschensee, which probably has the most sumptuous rooms in the world, has a novel dumbwaiter on which the dining room table rests. Press a button and the table disappears below; when the dishes are changed the next course rises with the table.

Hot Dog!

In 1937 a total of 460,000,000 pounds of frankfurters were made. This represents approximately 4,500,000,000 frankfurters of average size.
