Home Ec Meeting Breaks Record As 1249 Jams Campus

The tenth annual Home Interests conference, combined with the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of home economics education at Oregon State college, broke all attendance records with a total registration of 1249, from 24 counties and about a dozen other states.

Visitors devoted the first day of the session to an appraisal of the past and future of home economics education, and then spent the last two days in a series of crowded group meetings, where homemakers had opportunity to brush up on the latest developments in the various branches of their profession.

Home economics has now become education for home and family life, and it is experiencing the fascinating adventure of reappraising the past to determine what is worthy of passing on to the future, said Dr. Edmund deS. Brunner of Columbia university, one of the principal speakers this year.

"The age-old concept of the family as a clan dominated by the father as dictator, is passing," he pointed out. "In its place we view the family as the primary social group in a society striving increasingly to achieve democratic ideals. Never have the opportunities been greater to build a strong and happy family life."

Chancellor F. M. Hunter led a discussion of the future of home economics education, participated in by nine deans or directors of home economics from middle western and western states. Chancellor Hunter declared that home economics education has progressed to a place where it now constitutes essentially one of the humanities in higher education.

"We become convinced that some of the so-called practical preparation for life plays exactly the same role as those subjects and projects which we now revere as classics played for the period of ancient Greece," said Dr. Hunter.

Mrs. Ethel Lathrop of Jackson county remains as president of the state home economics extension council, which met in connection with the Home Interests conference. This council awarded its annual cash scholarship to Miss Bette Carothers of Corvallis, who was judged to be the most worthy of such financial assistance among seniors preparing for home economics extension work.

Riddle Is Easy For Railroaders

If you're tired of cross-word puzzles, here's a railroad riddle from C. W. Bragg, local agent for the Southern Pacific company.

How can Southern Pacific's westbound "Californian," popular economy train on the Chicago-Los Angeles run, arrive in Yuma, Arizona, today and leave yesterday?

Well, it's because Yuma is the beginning and end of a time zone, which makes it necessary for westbound travelers to set back their watches one hour at that point.

That being the case, it so happens that the Californian rolls into Yuma at 12:35 a. m., Mountain Time, on Sunday, say; stops 15 minutes, and departs at 11:50 p. m., Pacific Time, Saturday!

OREGON'S CAR RATIO RANKS THIRD NATIONALLY

There is a car registered in Oregon for 2.8 persons living in the state, according to Dr. E. B. McDaniel, president of the Oregon State Motor Association. In compiling the results of 1939 car registration, Dr. McDaniel said that Oregon was the third state in the nation in the per capita registration of cars, with more than 362,000 cars registered.

California, with 2,525,000 cars registered, leads both in number of cars registered and per capita registration, with one car for every 2.4 persons in the state. Nevada, the state with the smallest population (101,000) is second with one car for every 2.6 persons.

Alabama shows the lowest ratio of car owners with one car for 9.5 persons. According to Dr. McDaniel, the ratio for the United States is one car to every 4.35 persons.

SHINGLE BULLETIN ISSUED BY O.S.C.

Red cedar shingles, a distinctly western product, constitute one of the best, if not the best materials for modernization and repair of farm and home buildings, according to the authors of a new bulletin issued by the extension service at Oregon State college, which is virtually a handbook for those who contemplate using shingles in any type of building construction.
