

Forest Service to Try Parachute in Control of Fires

Unloading fire fighters from airplanes will be tried on a working basis this summer with project headquarters on the Chelan national forest at Winthrop, Washington, according to assistant regional forester M. L. Merritt, U. S. forest service, Portland, Oregon.

"We are acquiring 16 parachutes, 16 specially designed jumping suits, and 16 eight-pound smoke jumpers' radio sets," Merritt said. "Some risk will be involved, but tests made last fall indicate that it is safe to jump in mountainous terrain. The jumpers, as well as the pilots, will be given a course of training before the fire season opens. The parachutes are designed to give a falling speed of 12 feet per second, and flaps are attached with which to steer. The parachutes can be steered quite effectively. The suits are of heavy canvas, reinforced to secure safety. Ankle, knee and body braces, and a helmet with a metal mask, are part of the suit. The jumper will carry 200 feet of rope by means of which he can complete the descent in case he lands in a tree.

"The radio sets are about the size and shape of a cigarette carton and fit into a pocket on the parachute pack. As soon as the jumper lands, he radios that he is safe, and his fire fighting tools then are dropped in another parachute."

Youth Hostelry to Be Established Here

Officials of the youth hostelry are very anxious that such an institution be established in this district. Stopping places for youth cyclists have been established on a coastal loop in every place but here. A youth may go from Eugene to the coast, down to Reedsport and up the Umpqua as far as Elkton, but this is the last stopping place for a distance of approximately fifty miles.

Miss Margaret Dunham, northwest field representative of the Youth Hostels Inc., was the guest speaker at the Lions club program last Thursday and spoke at length explaining the functions of the organization and its benefits. Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Sidney A. Milligan introduced Glen Byrne of Eugene, chairman of the Lane county district, and Carl W. Onehank, chairman of the personnel division of the University of Oregon, who spoke briefly on the movement.

Milligan, hostler chairman of this district, said Tuesday he would endeavor to establish a hostelry south of town and that if one could be established within three or four miles of town, it would be about equidistant between Elkton and Eugene.

HOUSING SHORTAGE AGAIN

Cottage Grove apparently suffers spasmodic spells of housing shortage and for the past ten days the shortage has been acute, judging from the number of calls for both houses and apartments the past few days. Building activities expected to get underway during the summer months is expected to take care of the demand at least partly until work starts on the dams.

May 15-30 Cleanup Week at Cemetery

The mayor has decreed May 13 to May 18 clean-up days at Cottage Grove. We are choosing May 15 to May 30th to clean-up the cemetery. Some lot owners have already contributed but we still need funds to do this work properly. Please send us your $1 for the general fund. Those who clean their own lots please do not dump refuse in the alleys or on surrounding lots. Help us keep this cemetery in good shape and it will not cost so much to clean it up. We do the general work and only in case of those absent from the city, do we take care of individual lots since our funds are limited. If we will all cooperate this work can be done as it should be and we can show the world that we have not forgotten our departed loved ones.
