IT'S THE BERRIES

There are at least a dozen different ways to tantalize summer appetites during the berry season. Strawberries are on the wane now, but other berries take up the theme where strawberries leave off. There is no other section of the country where there is the variety of berries to choose from as in our own state. Raspberries, loganberries, blackberries, boysenberries, youngberries, follow each other in quick order and with their short season the homemaker should be on the watch and make the most of them.

Berry time is shortcake time. Any of the sweet, juicy berries are suitable for shortcake. It's best to let them stand with sugar for an hour or so to draw out the juice and to spread them on the cake just before serving. The short biscuit cake is our special favorite although the sponge and angel food seem to come in for honors too. For a hot day, fresh berries and ice cream atop a crisp waffle makes a luscious and satisfying shortcake.

Frozen desserts made with almost any of the berries are easy to make and such fun to serve for they are popular with everyone. Juice from any of the different berries is good for milk sherberts. Or if you buy your ice cream, use berries crushed slightly and sweetened over the top for delicious sundaes.

Among the old-fashioned berry favorites, freshly ripened berries and cream perhaps top the list. Have cream that is thick enough to coat each berry and powdered sugar for those who like it. In looking over old recipes we find this pudding which merits a trial.

Quick Berry Pudding.

1 quart berries
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
1 tsp salt
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tbsp melted butter
1 tsp lemon juice, if desired.
Pick over the berries, wash, drain, mix with sugar, water, and salt and boil for 5 minutes. Combine the bread crumbs and butter, add to the hot fruit, stir until well mixed and let stand on the back of the stove for about 30 minutes, (low or stored heat to you) but do not let the pudding cook. Add the lemon juice and serve the pudding while still warm with plain cream.
