

LION ROARS

As Echoed From Cottage Grove Union High School

December 6, "Growing Pains," junior class play; December 20, the annual Christmas program by the music department.

Pledges Taken

The Omicron Chapter of the National Honor society presented the Thanksgiving assembly, Friday, November 15. Six pledges were taken into the society in an impressive candle light service. The pledges were: Dick Smith, Maxine Ewing, Mildred Harris, Marcia Smith, Paul Anderson, and Lois Hansen. The basis upon which students are chosen is: Scholarship, character, leadership, service. The members who performed the initiation ceremony were: Velma Wilson, Patricia Baldwin, Marcia Brund, Evelyn Lamb, George Dugan and Harry Sturges. The guest speaker was the Rev. Tilton, pastor of the Methodist church, who spoke on "The Real Meaning of Thanksgiving." Patricia Baldwin sang a solo entitled "My Task," accompanied by Marcia Brund. Miss Jelinek directed the assembly in some songs. The words of these songs were projected on a screen so all students might follow and take part in the singing.

Newssette Staff

Silva Michael was elected by the student council last week to be editor of the Newssette until an editor is elected by the student body.

Miss Kem appointed the following to take over the different staff offices of the Newssette. They are: Maxine Hunter, assistant editor; Janet Peterson, Sentinel editor; Marjory Earl, cartoonist; Clifford Van Prooyen, business manager; Bessie Sheldon, press staff editor; Adele Bostick, exchange editor; page editors, Ruth Davenport, Mary Jackson, Marjory Earl, Lucille Abeene, June Eastburn, Claud Lebow, Clifford Van Prooyen and Faye Nixon.

Junior Play

Yes, it is getting close to December 6, the date for the annual junior play "Growing Pains." Almost everybody likes romance and comedy. This play has plenty of both. For romance, take the hero and heroine, George and Terry McIntyre (Tommy Jones and Marjory Earl). They give excellent examples of first love, with heart-rending troubles. For comedy, take Professor and Mrs. McIntyre (Jim Adkins and Faye Nixon). They make many jokes over the adolescence of their children, Terry and George, over their poor (and not understanding) pronunciation of some of the words they have heard the professor use. (And some professors can use mighty big words). For romance, thrills and comedy, save the evening of December 6 for "Growing Pains."

Christmas Program

A Christmas program will be presented by the mixed glee clubs, and orchestra under the direction of Miss Jelinek and Mr. Stovall, December 20, in the high school auditorium. The programs will consist of pieces by the orchestra, songs by the a capella choir, a solo, a Christmas reading and songs and carols by the mixed choruses.

The band presented its annual concert to a small but appreciative audience November 14 in the auditorium. The smallness of the crowd was probably due to the necessity for changing the date the last week.

Lions Win Sweet Home Game; Play Closing Game Here on 21st

The Lions drowned out the Sweet Home Huskies in a free-scoring game Saturday at Sweet Home 19 to 13 to add another victory to their string of wins. The score was tied 13 to 13 at the end of the third quarter, but in the fourth quarter a pass, Jones to Seagoe, put the game on ice.

Final Game With Junction City. The final game of the season is Thanksgiving day with Junction City here. Despite the fact that the Junction City team outweighs the Lions the Lions should have a little edge over the visitors. The home team, however, will be handicapped by the loss of Bauer, out with a broken hand.

Production Increased

In the textile industry's five main branches, said Emil Rieve, president of the Textile Workers union, mechanization has reduced employment 20 per cent in the past 20 years, while production has increased 25 per cent. To illustrate his point, Mr. Rieve testified that since 1919 machinery has increased the productivity of each employee in the silk and rayon industries by 145 per cent; in knit goods, 86 per cent; in woollens, 77 per cent.

Corn As Food to Be Featured at State Corn Show

The use of corn in the diet will be the subject of an educational display to be put on in connection with the fourth annual Oregon State Corn show, to be held in Corvallis, November 22 and 23. The exhibit is being prepared by the home economics department at Oregon State college, with the instructional and extension divisions both participating.

Six different popular corn dishes will be on display and mimeographs of the recipes by which they were made will be available. These are all tested recipes, having been tried out by students in experimental cookery under the direction of Miss Agnes Kolshorn, associate professor of foods and nutrition.

Other educational exhibits are being arranged by the O.S.C. Farm Crops club, the Agricultural Engineering club, the Oregon Certified Hybrid Seed Corn Growers, a Linn county 4-H club and the Oregon Junior Farmers' union. Corvallis businessmen will be hosts to all visitors at noon of the first day of the show, when a free lunch will be provided for all. The corn shucking contest is scheduled for 10 o'clock Friday, to be followed by the corn growers' judging contest.

Dean William A. Schoenfeld will preside at the educational program starting at 1:30 o'clock. "Corn in Oregon's Agriculture" will be discussed by G. R. Hyslop, head of plant industries at OSC, after which E. R. Jackman will lead a panel discussion on corn production. E. B. McNaughton, president of the First National bank of Portland, will discuss corn and banking and will then present the first day's awards. A no-host dinner at the Corvallis hotel will be held at 6:30 o'clock, with Mr. McNaughton and C. I. Sersanous of Portland as speakers.

4-H and FFA judging contests will be held Saturday morning, with an educational program in the afternoon of special interest to the junior corn growers but open to all. Corn in the livestock feeding program of Oregon will be discussed by H. A. Lindgren, extension animal husbandman.

Basketball practice is underway for the union high school hoopers with the first practice game set for November 29th at Yoncalla against the Yoncalla squad.
