

Pork Production Following Trend Forecast by OSC

The recent pig crop forecast of the United States department of agriculture, showing that farmers have intended to make a further reduction in the pig crop of 1941 compared with 1940 and 1939, confirms the hog outlook issued from Oregon State college last fall, according to L. R. Breithaupt, extension agricultural economist.

To what extent the intentions of hog producers in the corn and hog states may be changed owing to the advice of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard to raise more pigs in 1941 is problematical at this time, although it is possible that the hog situation may be changed materially, especially by 1942.

The Oregon outlook statement, which was issued last September, states that "the outlook for meat animals for marketing during the 1940-41 season appears more favorable than the long-time prospect," as "consumer demand for meats during the 1940-41 marketing season is expected to be stronger than during the 1939-40 season and the total quantity of livestock to be marketed is expected to be smaller."

It was further pointed out in the college statement on the meat animals outlook that the reduction in the meat supply during the 1940-41 marketing year would be due principally to fewer hogs. The supply of hogs for the 1939-40 season was the greatest in 5 years following the largest pig crop on record in 1939.

The pig crop of 1939 was estimated at 86 million head. In 1940, the pig crop was reduced to 77,000,000 head, and a considerable further reduction in 1941 was indicated by the pig crop report.

The effect on meat supplies of the secretary's advice to farmers to market more beef instead of continuing to hold back large numbers of cattle for breeding stock, is also problematical. The soundness of this suggestion is not questioned, says Professor Breithaupt, but if followed extensively there will be more meat on the market than appeared probable last September.

On the other hand, consumer demand for meat will probably be even stronger than was anticipated last fall, indicating that meat prices may be expected to hold up well until the supply produced and imported becomes materially greater or consumer purchasing power drops.

Spicy Coating for Doughnuts
To give a spicy sugar coating to freshly fried doughnuts, mix half a cup of granulated sugar, one teaspoon of cinnamon, one-half teaspoon of powdered cloves and one-fourth cup of chopped nut meats. Place in a paper sack and add six doughnuts at a time. Shake the bag until doughnuts are coated. These are delicious served with hot or cold drinks.

Judge $10,000 Award for Workers' Ideas

UNDER a plan to distribute $10,000 in prizes for ideas concerning devices or processes to speed industrial defense preparations, judges of the Revere Award for metal workers have been selected from the United States armed forces and from science, labor and industry. The prizes will be given to workmen in the metal working industry submitting the ten suggestions which, in the eyes of the jury, will contribute the most toward this objective.

Members of the Award jury are Henry T. Heald, Chairman, President of the Illinois Institute of Technology; Admiral Joseph Strauss, U. S. Navy, retired; Major General Frank Parker, U. S. Army, retired; Robert J. Watt, former secretary of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor and American workers' delegate at the International Management Congress at Geneva, Switzerland; and C. Donald Dallas, President of the Revere Copper and Brass Incorporated.

Mr. Dallas stated that the aim of the Revere Award is to assist the industrial defense program by making available to it one of this country's greatest overlooked assets—the inventive skill and ingenuity of American workmen.

Brings His Own Bed
Making freshmen happy and satisfied with their surroundings is one of the first duties of the collegiate year at the University of Kansas. But Valories Harlan, a freshman from Eureka, just couldn't seem to get comfortable. He was assigned to live at Templin Hall, one of the new self-governing men's dormitories, too. Valories had a hankering for his bed back home. He didn't care for the nice, new double-deckers. When his own bed arrived, Valories settled down for his first comfortable night away from home. He's 6 feet 7 and those new beds just weren't long enough for him.

Rubber Mules Are Latest
All-rubber mules are the newest notion in bedroom and bathroom slippers. Because they are in no way susceptible to moisture you can step out of the bath directly into the mules without sloshing them out of shape. All the care they need to keep them durable and dainty is frequent washing in lukewarm water and mild soapsuds.
