

Pedestrian Protection Greater Hazard for Elderly

That street crossings are especially hazardous for elderly pedestrians is shown by figures on pedestrian fatalities in Oregon and for the nation as a whole. The chart above shows the pedestrian death rates for the various age groups for the nation as a whole. Here in Oregon, figures compiled by the state traffic safety division show that 40 percent of the pedestrian fatalities involve persons 65 years of age or older. Sixty percent are over 50 years of age. Inability to judge the speed of approaching cars is a leading factor in many of these accidents. Elderly persons are advised to wait when cars are approaching, rather than to cross the path of the oncoming vehicle, the speed of which the pedestrian may misjudge with fatal results.

PEAK AUTO PRODUCTION.

The peak production figure for the United States and Canada was reached in 1929 when 5,621,045 vehicles came off the assembly line. The next highest year was 1937, with 5,016,437 vehicles. In each of these years, more motor vehicles were produced than were made during the period from 1900 to 1916, according to the Oregon State Motor association.

FSA to Aid in Food for Freedom

Farm Security loans in Lane county are being concentrated on financing of sound expansion of dairy, hog, poultry, feed crops and garden enterprises to aid FSA borrowers and disadvantaged farm families in meeting the "Food for Freedom" quotas set up by the county agricultural defense board, reports Dale R. Winn, County FSA supervisor, Eugene.

"Every effort will be made to help farmers unable to secure adequate credit from other sources to purchase the cows, hogs, poultry, seed, feed and equipment necessary to place their farms on an all-out defense production basis," Winn said. "Where facilities for defense food expansion are available, farmers will not only be able to add to their incomes but prevent inflation by producing food for which there is increased demand."

Modifications of the neutrality act, making American ships available for carrying food to Britain, is expected to substantially increase present demand for defense foods, it was pointed out. Another important consideration, said Winn, "is the fact that the machinery for supporting defense food prices, crop controls and need for feeding Europe and replacing breeding herds after the war, minimizes possibilities of a post-war slump in farm prices."

"FSA families are also planning to increase food production through machinery cooperatives, better sires, improved dairy and poultry practices, increased food crops and expanded live-at-home program for meeting family food needs. All farm plans now being revised for the coming year, will consider food for freedom AAA work sheets as one of the most important steps in doing their part for national defense."
