

Lane Tire Group Meets to Discuss New Regulations

The Lane county tire rationing committee held its initial meeting at the court house in Eugene Monday to discuss organization plans and to study the rules and regulations. The local tire rationing committee consists of Sam Mackin, Mrs. Julia Bartels and Fred Knickerbocker. Local inspectors include Walter Trembley and Hank Weeldreyer.

Sam Mackin, chairman of the committee, who attended the meeting Monday, said several points regarding the rules and regulations were not clear, but the committee hoped to clear up all points as progress was made in the functioning of the committee. One particular point which was troubling local people is the fact that dairies will apparently not be able to make a house to house delivery of milk, at least after the tires on the present delivery trucks are worn out. Dairies will be permitted to drive trucks or pickups to and from the dairy barns and deliver milk to the plant or store, when it may be purchased by the consumer.

Here is a list of the users who will be permitted to buy tires: No certificate shall be issued unless the applicant for the certificate certifies that the tire, casing or tube for which application is made is to be mounted:

(a) On a vehicle which is operated by a physician, surgeon, visiting nurse, or a veterinary, and which is used principally for professional services.

(b) On an ambulance.

(c) On a vehicle used exclusively for one or more of the following purposes: To maintain fire fighting services; to maintain necessary public police services; to enforce such laws as relate specifically to the protection of public health and safety; to maintain garbage disposal and other sanitary services; to maintain mail services.

(d) On a vehicle, with a capacity of ten or more passengers, operated exclusively for one or more of the following purposes: Transportation of passengers as part of the services rendered to the public by a regular transportation system; transportation of students and teachers to and from school; transportation of employees to or from any industrial or mining establishment or construction project, except when public transportation facilities are readily available.

(e) On a truck operated exclusively for one or more of the purposes stated in the preceding sections or for one or more of the following purposes: Transportation of ice, and of fuel; transportation of material and equipment for the building and maintenance of public roads; transportation of material and equipment for the construction and maintenance of public utilities; transportation of material and equipment for the construction and maintenance of production facilities; transportation of material and equipment for the construction of defense housing facilities and military and naval establishments; transportation essential to render roofing, plumbing, heating and electrical repair services; transportation of waste and scrap materials; transportation of raw materials, semi-manufactured goods, and finished products, including farm products and foods, provided that no certificate shall be issued for a new tire or tube to be mounted on a truck used (a) for the transportation of commodities to the ultimate consumer for personal, family, or household use; or (b) for transportation of materials for construction and maintenance except to the extent specifically provided by subsections 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 of this section (e).

(f) On farm tractors or other farm implements other than automobiles or trucks for the operation of which rubber tires, casings or tubes are essential.

(g) On industrial, mining, and construction equipment other than automobiles or trucks for the operation of which rubber tires, casings, or tubes are essential.
