

Save Man Hours For Yourself and Your Laundryman

If you're looking for more ways to help industry save precious man-hours—and who isn't in these times—you'll like this new plan for sorting your washing before sending it to the laundry.

The idea behind this new plan is to pack your laundry bundle in layers—like you'd make a layer cake. In making a layer cake, however, it doesn't matter which layer is placed first, second, third or fourth. In packing your laundry bundle this does make a difference if your sorting at home is to save important man-hours in industry, according to the American Institute of Laundering.

The plan is simple—only four points to follow: Here they are.

1. Place all white articles on the bottom of the bag.

2. Place all colored pieces in the second layer.

3. Matched socks form the third layer.

4. Tie shirts to be ironed together for the fourth, or top layer.

If shirts are not to be ironed, they should be placed on the bottom if white; in the second layer if colored.

Even with this preliminary sorting at home, professional laundry sorters still have much separating to do—white cottons and linens must be separated from white woollens, silks and rayons.

Then the second layer you pack—colored pieces—must be separated so that safe-to-wash-together colors are in their proper groups—woollens, silks and rayons separated from cottons and linens.

With so much to be done at the laundry, you may wonder how the four layers you pack can be of much help after all. Laundryowners who devised this plan, explain it this way:

Sorting is one of the most important operations in the modern laundry. Only through proper sorting, can each soiled article be washed by the safest and best method for its color and fiber content.

It takes a heap of training to turn out a capable, experienced sorter so this is one job in the modern laundry not entrusted to green, inexperienced help.

By sorting your bundle into the four layers suggested and packing them in the bag as recommended—white things on the bottom, colored things second, matched socks third and shirts to be ironed fourth—you help these experienced sorters at the laundry to handle a much greater volume of work. This gives greater protection to your own things and those of your neighbors and friends.

In fact, if every laundry customer would follow this plan, each experienced sorter at the laundry could handle at least a third more work than is possible when the bundle is packed hit or miss fashion as most of us do in peacetime.

K OF C'S MEET IN COTTAGE GROVE

The Eugene Council of the Knights of Columbus held their regular monthly meeting in Cottage Grove Monday evening in the Eagles hall. They were guests of their brother Knights from Cottage Grove, Drain, Yoncalla and Harrisburg.

Following the regular business meeting which was conducted by the Grand Knight Phillip Gent, with some 60 representative members of his Eugene council present, a very interesting social hour was arranged by the lecturer, Dale Cooley. Among the speakers arranged for on the program were the Rev. Father Murry, Captain Chaplain of Camp Adair; the Rev. John Killian, former missionary in China and Japan, and the Rev. John Walsh of Monroe, graduate student of the American College in Rome. Father Louis Sohler of Eugene accompanied the Eugene guests and spoke interestingly of his former experiences when he served Cottage Grove as a mission from Eugene.

Father Maxwell, local pastor, spoke a few words of welcome to the guests and mentioned in particular the fine cooperative and progressive spirit of the citizens of Cottage Grove as a whole.

Special plans for the meeting as well as the refreshments were arranged by local brother Knights Glen Scott, Leo Waldo and Russell Smith as chairman.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Election of officers was held Tuesday evening by the Research club at their meeting at the library with Miss Eunice Vandenberg being elected president. Those serving with her are Miss Lena Zondron, vice president, and Mrs. S. T. Rose, secretary and treasurer. A report was given by the program committee. "Cross Creek" was the book reviewed by Mrs. Alvis Wicks and Mrs. Vern Williams reviewed the book "House for the Sparrow" by J. T. Yenni.

Meat

The army, navy, and our allies will need at least 6½ billion pounds of meat during the coming year.

Here a smiling Danish pilot officer points to his country's flag and to his plane named after the Danish hero, Niels Ebbesen, who in 1340 liberated Denmark from German aggressors.

Annual Cemetery Clean Up May 17

In spite of war, famine and pestilence, spring comes once more to God's good earth, and all of Hitler's legions cannot hold against time's appointed hour. In our sheltered peaceful valley, where still abides unharmed our beautiful little city of Cottage Grove, surrounded by her native green hills, spring aided by her cohorts of rain and sunshine, has worked strewn with a lavish hand more than the usual luxuriant vegetation round-a-bout. And the hour approaches when we must again call to our aid all those interested in a project which must be undertaken about this time each year.

Already our first and one of our most faithful contributors, Mrs. Clara Milne Ayres of Sisters, Oregon, has forwarded her share. Each year she is the first to respond, and never fails. Such faithful devotion for so many years, gives us courage to go forward with a task which is never easy and will be doubly difficult this year.

Due to labor shortage and the high cost of hiring the necessary work done, it will be very hard to complete our task, but we believe it can be done with your cooperation, which alone makes it possible each year. It is however, with reluctance that we are asking that your contribution for each lot this year be raised from the usual $1 to $1.50 in order that we may be able to pay the higher cost and secure the necessary labor.

Amid all the other demands upon us, in this year of total war, this is one task we cannot and will not forget. Let us all then cooperate to the best of our ability, so that we may once more honor on Memorial Day our living dead, who have gone before us, and put their last resting places on this earth in fitting shape for that day. So that when our turn comes too, as come it will, and no man knows when, to pass from this troubled earth to the Land of Everlasting Life, there will be others to take up our task and honor us in turn. God willing, and with your cooperation, we hope to complete the task in time for May 30th. We begin work May 17. We rely on you to make this task a success and we are sure you will not fail us.

Faithfully yours,
The Cottage Grove
Cemetery Association.
Belle Burkholder, Secy.
