

Points Out Location Where United Nations Prisoners Are Held In Italian Prison Camps

This pretty little Washington Miss is being shown on a map of Italy, locations of Italian prison camps where United Nations prisoners of war are held. The Red Cross volunteer also shows the Washington Miss the contents of the standard American Red Cross prisoners of war food parcel, which the International Red Cross forwards in sufficient numbers to make possible weekly distribution to each American military prisoner. Polish Sailors

MEN OF POLAND'S NAVY find time during their hours off watch to train their ship's mascots. Pil, the black kitten, seems more at home before the camera than his young play-mate, Barek. Although Poland's navy represents but nine per cent of United Nations fleets affiliated with the United States and British navies her officers and men have won the highest number of decorations awarded by the British to Allied naval men—11 Distinguished Service Orders, 11 Distinguished Service Crosses, 15 Distinguished Service Medals.

Children Convoyed With Rope

A guide rope is used to convoy these British youngsters across a busy street. They are the children of war workers, placed in a day nursery while their parents make ammunition.

Youngsters Get Air Training

High school students will receive training in the fundamentals of flying if this motorized pre-flight trainer is adopted in the public schools. June Hamilton demonstrates the tiny trainer, showing that it can back, turn and pivot as well as the expensive trainers.

Clean Motors
Brushes on a dirty electric motor wear out much faster than brushes on a motor that is cleaned periodically.

Cutting Transportation Expenses
Five Chrysler employees have been car-sharing since 1937, cutting transportation expenses 80 per cent on their 50-mile round-trip to work.

Next of Kin May Send Parcels to Prisoners of War

WASHINGTON, D. C.—"Stalag," "Lag," or "Oflag," might be just three more German words to most people but to hundreds of American families they mean the addresses where their brothers, husbands, or fathers are held prisoners of war in German camps. Stalag is an abbreviation of a German word meaning a prison camp for privates, Oflag is a permanent officers' prison camp, and Dulag is a transient camp. But whatever the camp, it is such an address on the labels furnished next of kin of captured United States personnel by the Office of Provost Marshal General which enables them to mail parcels to their brothers and husbands.

Italian prison camps are designated by P. G. and P. M., followed by a designating number. The P. M. is an area and the P. G. is a specific camp.

Through April 30, 1943, the American Red Cross had been informed of the dispatch of 31,889 parcels from Geneva to American soldiers in German and Italian prison camps.

The standard American Red Cross prisoner of war food parcel contains powdered whole milk, oleomargarine fortified with vitamin A, American cheese, pork luncheon meat, corned beef, liver pate, salmon, dried prunes, orange concentrate, army biscuits, sugar, coffee, chocolate, cigarettes, and soap. Each parcel weighs eleven pounds, more than eight of which are food.

Order Weekly Parcels

The International Red Cross has been instructed to dispatch sufficient standard American Red Cross food parcels so that one may be distributed each week to each United States prisoner. Other United Nations prisoners of war receive American Red Cross food parcels, which are purchased by foreign Red Cross societies, governments in exile, and private relief organizations. Parcels for American prisoners are paid for by the Army and Navy.

New regulations have been issued by which close relatives of United Nations prisoners of war may send standard food parcels to identified prisoners in Europe through the American Red Cross. These regulations, now effective, can be obtained from local Red Cross chapters, and cover prisoners of Belgian, Polish, Yugoslav, Norwegian, Dutch, Greek, and other nationalities. Prisoners held by Japan are not included in the new regulations due to present lack of transportation facilities to the Far East.

HENRY M. WAGNER

Word has been received here of the death of Henry M. Wagner June 22, 1943, at Los Angeles, California, an old time resident of Cottage Grove. He was born June 7, 1876 at Oakland, Oregon, and passed away at the age of 67 years. Mr. Wagner was a Spanish War veteran, having enlisted at the age of 21 and served with Company B, 2nd regiment, Oregon infantry at Manila, P. I.

He was a nephew of the late George F. Garoutte and is survived by one sister, Cassie James, of Los Angeles, and two half-brothers Bill Sherwood of Los Angeles and Bob Sherwood of Portland. His wife Grace passed away several years ago.

DEFINITIONS

A member of Washington Rotary carries copies of these definitions in his pocket to cheer him up when the going gets rough. Maybe they will encourage you.

A Coordinator is a man who brings organized chaos out of unorganized confusion.

A Conference is a group of people, who, individually, can do nothing, but as a group can meet and decide that nothing can be done.

A Statistician is a man who draws a mathematically precise line from an unwarranted assumption to a foregone conclusion.

A Professor is a man whose job it is to tell students how to solve the problems of life which he himself had tried to avoid by becoming a professor.

An Efficiency Expert is a man who knows less about your business than you do and gets paid more for telling you how to run it than you could possibly make out of it even if you ran it right instead of the way he told you to.

A Consultant is an ordinary guy who is a long way from home.—Progress.

Unhurt, Unstung

In Marion, Ohio, a pheasant flew against Fred Maag's windshield as he drove along, breaking a hole in it. Through the opening flew a bee. Mr. Maag fought off the bee, lost control of the car and it overturned. Mr. Maag climbed out of the wreckage unhurt, unstung.
