

Improved Outlook Seen by Dodd for Livestock Feeds

An improved outlook for feed supplies for livestock and poultry producers was disclosed by N. E. Dodd, national administrator of the AAA, at the recent meeting of the state AAA committee and Oregon State college staff men. The brighter outlook applies both to wheat and to high protein supplies.

Enough feed wheat to meet all normal livestock needs for an indefinite period will be available through the Commodity Credit Corporation as a result of recent congressional action, Dodd announced. Cost may vary slightly, but is expected to remain near the present price based on the relationship to corn parity prices.

A probable solution of the shortage of high protein concentrates is seen by Dodd in arrangements recently completed with oil seed crushers. Under these arrangements the CCC will control approximately 25 per cent of the country's total supply of vegetable protein concentrates in contrast to only 4 per cent last year.

This reserve will be used as a pool from which to make allocations to different regions so that each state may receive supplies based on consumption in 1941 and 1942. Total supplies are expected to be enough to meet feeding requirements based on approved protein ratios.

Further to facilitate equitable distribution, handlers of soybean meal will be limited by the crushers to 15-day supply to avoid accumulating stock piles. The War Food Administration also has the right to cut in on any contract for the purchase of vegetable proteins if necessary to take care of deficiency areas such as the Pacific states have been recently.

While the new program will not be fully effective until about December 1, nearly half the mills are still crushing soybeans from last year's crop and some animal protein is being imported, so that even the outlook for the immediate future is improved, Dodd pointed out.

This was Dodd's first visit to his home state since he was made national administrator last spring. He is a farmer at Haines, Oregon, who has worked up from a local AAA position to state committee chairman, western regional director and then national administrator.

Seeds Endure

Lettuce seed can be kept satisfactorily for six years, while tomato, beet, cabbage, Swiss chard, eggplant, kale and radish seed is usable for four years; snap bean, lima bean, spinach, broccoli, carrot, celery, pea and sweet corn seed for three years; pepper seed, two years; onion and parsley seed, one year.

Say Ration Like Fashion

There is no evidence that "ration" (pronounced like "nation") ever got a foothold in the armed services, the only circles in which the word has a continuous living history. The editors of the New English Dictionary note that "ration" (pronounced like "fashion") is the pronunciation "usual in the army," and they explain it as perhaps "due to the adoption of the word from French."

Much Livestock Saved In Flooded Midwest By Red Cross Program

Disaster crews of the American Red Cross saved livestock as well as humans, and fed both during its rescue and rehabilitation program in the recent Midwest floods which inundated great sections of six states. Feed was hauled to many marooned animals in high spots. Wagons and boats of every description were used to reach marooned livestock. Epidemics were averted by immunization of thousands of animals. Upper photo shows volunteers headed for a group of marooned livestock close to Chester, Ill., while the lower photograph shows Dr. R. N. Russell, veterinarian, of Morris, Arkansas, aided by J. H. Russell, injecting blackleg serum into a calf.

69 Experts Put Across Arthur McCrea Scene

A routine Jean Arthur-Joel McCrea scene for "The More the Merrier" took on the proportions of a big production.

So that the two might meet on a Washington, D. C. apartment house rooftop for a scene in the timely new comedy coming to the Arcade Theatre August 15, Columbia studio prepared a "rooftop" which covered the entire floor of a huge sound stage, complete with water tanks, chimney tops, ventilator outlets and other items.

A 42-man technical crew was on hand, all with the one purpose of aiding producer-director George Stevens to get the scene on film as a brief, if tender, episode in the completed photoplay.

In addition, for purposes of background "atmosphere," the assistant director summoned one girl to take a shower under the water tank, three other girls just to pose around in bathing suits, eight to ten small boys, one weight lifter, five poker players (male), two gin rummy players (female), two soldiers and one artist.

WHEN TRADING YOUR AUTO

When an automobile is sold, the tire inspection record for the vehicle should be transferred by the seller to the buyer, who in turn should present it to his local war price and rationing board when applying for a new Basic A mileage ration book. The OPA District Office explained today in response to many inquiries received from persons buying used cars. Automobile dealers must obtain the tire inspection records when used cars are acquired for transfer to the new owners.

Local boards can quickly process applications for Basic A books when the tire inspection records are presented; otherwise the applicant must satisfy the board either that no tire inspection record ever was issued for the vehicle or the buyer has not been able to get a record from the previous owner after making a diligent effort to do so.

Tire inspection records are needed to confirm whether or not the tires on the vehicle involved have been currently inspected and to clarify any discrepancy in tire serial numbers. Motorists are required to keep their inspection records in the vehicle at all times.

Grew Caster in U. S.

Although the bulk of castor beans used in the United States has been imported from Brazil, the plant was introduced into the United States by the Spaniards 300 years ago. As early as 1818, the beans were grown to a considerable extent in the Central West of this country. In 1879, Kansas produced a record crop of 768,143 bushels which glutted the market.

With The Armed Forces

Bede, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Bede of Portland, says he arrived in Scotland via his Liberator, "Lady Godiva," the time for the trip having been close to the time it took him to play 18 holes of golf just before he left for the big adventure. He says "I guess they are making plenty of B-17s as I have seen more of them in the past three days than I saw all the time I was in America. We have the satisfaction of knowing the British use the B-24s exclusively (in American-built planes), and Churchill still uses the B-24 (Liberator)."

What is America Fighting For?

Freedom of Speech!

(One of the Essentials of a Democracy)

Freedom of speech is but one of the many important rights America is fighting for today!

Our free speech is as American as Valley Forge. Fostered by our Pilgrim Fathers, it was protected by the life-blood of the Colonials and finally written into the Bill of Rights as a sacred, inalienable right of the American people.

Lose it now? Never! To us freedom of speech is still worth fighting for. Like individual initiative, free speech has helped make America the greatest nation in the world. It took courage, foresight, and hard work to build the great private business enterprises that have made America's standard of living the highest in the world. And those same qualities—personal sacrifice, hard work, individual initiative—will again make America victorious in this fight for freedom!

In war any waste is a crime. Do not waste electricity just because no ration tickets are required!
