OPA Explains How Food May Be Served to Groups

In answer to inquiries, the district OPA this week explained how organized groups, such as parent-teacher associations, may obtain food for serving occasional meals under present rationing regulations.

Lodges, church clubs, P.T.A.'s, and other similar organizations since foods are rationed because they are scarce, were urged not to make extra demands on limited supplies for such occasions unless conditions make it really necessary.

A simple alternative is to have persons who are to share a group meal contribute the food. This practice is in keeping with rationing regulations, OPA said, since rationed foods may be contributed to a meal which the donor shares. To a large extent, if the group wishes to help the wartime food program it will plan to use the more plentiful unrationed foods.

It is possible, too, for persons who share a meal to contribute their ration points in order to provide the food. This may be done either by contributing loose, one-point meat stamps (the only stamps which may be detached) or by lending ration books to the person who is to do the buying for the group. (Ration books may be loaned if the owner of the book is to share in the meal served.)

In situations where it is not feasible to provide food for a group meal through contributions either of food or of points, groups may apply to local war price and rationing boards for points to buy the necessary rationed foods.

AGRICULTURE PREPARING FOR 1944

Easing of the rationing restrictions on farm machinery, increased production of new farm machinery, and a campaign among farmers to "Keep your war equipment fit and fighting" are indications of plans now being laid by the War Food Administration to meet increased production goals for 1944. Suggestions for expanded wartime production have been sent for consideration to State Agricultural War Boards and other farm representatives. State Boards have been asked to set 1944 goals. The national program calls for a record-breaking 380 million acres in crops. Problems relating to labor, machinery, supplies, conservation practices, and prices will be considered at 48 state meetings or state groups with representatives of WFA during October.
