

Farmers Asking For Facts About Hog Price Future

With the period at hand for planning for the fall pig crop of 1944, farmers are asking about what the price of hogs will be after March 1945, say agricultural economists of the O. S. C. Extension service in reviewing the hog out look. Most of the 1944 crop of fall pigs will be marketed after March next year. This year's price floor on hogs, which is $12.50 at Chicago for 200 to 270-pound good and choice barrows and gilts, expires March 30, 1945.

Congress has provided that certain commodities, including hogs, are to be supported at 90 per cent of parity for two years after the end of the war, under certain conditions, the economists point out. Just what the parity price of hogs will be a year ahead depends considerably on the index of prices paid for commodities, interest, and taxes at that time. This index has been going up at the rate of 10 to 12 points a year.

To compute the parity price of hogs, you take $7.27, which was the United States average farm price in the 1910-1914 period, and multiply by the index of prices paid by farmers. With this index at 171 on March 15, 1944, the parity price of hogs was $12.43, and 90 per cent of that is $11.19. If prices paid by farmers increase 10 points more, the parity price would be $13.16, and 90 per cent of that is $11.84.

More definite information about the 1945-46 hog price support program would help farmers to plan production, as the post-war price support provisions are indefinite in other ways, the O. S. C. men add. One of the qualifications is that the price support is to be provided until the secretary of agriculture has given sufficient public announcement to permit producers of such commodity to make a readjustment in the production of the commodity. Then too, any promise of support prices is certain of fulfillment only to the extent funds are made available. Provisions for supporting the six "basic" crops are more definite, within the range of 85 to 90 per cent of parity through nonrecourse loans.

POWER EXTENSIONS CURBED BY ORDER

Extensions of electric power service by primary lines are deferred as a result of an order received by the Mountain States Power Co. from J. A. Krug, director of the offices of war utilities for the war production board.

The order, which was put into effect March 25 but has just been made public, is nation-wide in its scope and especially affects extending service to rural areas.

Increased demands for small transformers for military radio and radar use and a shortage of manpower in the factories are cited in Krug's order setting up regional control over sales of transformers available for public uses. Available transformers will be allotted each month on a basis of need and the number available in monthly regional quota.

LAUNDREYS DOING GOOD JOB

Working under odds that have closed down many industries, the nation's laundries have done a bang up war job while still doing 530 million bundles of family washing annually for Mr. and Mrs. America.

This was the consensus of opinion reached at the annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the American Institute of Laun-

Spring Bowling Tourney in 4th Wk.

Highlighting the spring bowling tourney now underway at the Cottage Grove recreational alleys was the sound walloping given the league leaders, the Quality Market by the cellar dwellers, the Irish & Swartz crew, who made it the best two out of three Monday evening in the grudge match for high stakes. Hap Wolfard was high man of the three game series with a score of 576. Smarting under the fact that last week he was accused of being a proud papa (at his age), he really bowled em over.

A rejuvenated Capital Lumber Co. crew was leading the nine other teams at the end of the third week of the spring event with eight games won and one lost. High single honors was held by Holmes with a score of 225 for the men. Betty Bone held high single honors for the ladies with a score of 187. Holmes likewise held high series honors for the men with 580 and Betty Bone for the women with 497.

Standings of the remaining teams were:

DRAFT HALTED FOR MEN OVER 25

WASHINGTON — Selective service Saturday declared a moratorium on induction and processing of men 26 years of age and over today, effective until draft boards have finished with their younger registrants.

The new order applies even to men who may have been ordered to report for induction, with the proviso that they be in essential jobs.

Processing and induction if older men may be resumed, the order said, when local boards are satisfied that their younger men all have been handled.

Another new draft dictum gives fathers older than 30 liberal consideration for deferment, tightens sharply deferment requirements in other age groups and warns 4-F's who are not now in essential work to get into it immediately or face a work battalion order.
