STRIPED DASH

—Courtesy New York Dress Institute

Stripes are more plentiful than polka dots this season, and shoulders are more frequently T-square than normal. Although bright colors abound, many New York designers show the usual number of navy and black dresses with white trims, or, as in the dress pictured, striped with white. This black crepe has the season's flattering, soft bow neckline, and is gathered on each side of the skirt, rather than across, for a flat midriff look. The red bouquet and black patent leather belt are typical of dainty touches used on spring's tailored fabrics.

Presbyterian church will be entertained by Miss Dorothy Moore at the home of Mrs. Gay Earl.

"JUST A BLOCK OF WOOD"

In Cottage Grove there is a store, some things they had but now there's more, among the fixtures is a block of wood, for building fires not very much good, but it carries memories of a little lad, our Uncle Sam has called his Dad, with hammer and nails many hours he spent, his name you may guess was Jon David Kent. On rainy days or when the weather was cool, Jon wasn't old enough to be in school, he'd sit for hours and the nails he'd pound, into the wood and make a sound, of a happy and contented boy, whose life was filled with love and joy, soon little Jon will be a man, and we're sure he will be good, but this little plaything of his childhood days, will "just be a block of wood."
