Teachers Entertained By Local Civic Clubs

Approximately 150 were in attendance at the banquet for local teachers, sponsored by the Lions club, Chamber of Commerce and B. & P. W. club Thursday night at the high school cafeteria, served by the high school cafeteria. The program as promised started with a bang and ended the same way; the sound effect was secured by firing a pistol.

Teachers and other visitors were not disappointed, the program was horse play from start to finish. Damon Scott, serving as toastmaster introduced Mrs. Irma Thum, who extended greetings to the teachers from the B. & P. W. club and Karl Mills, who extended greetings from the Chamber of Commerce.

A novel feature of entertainment, reminding the banqueters of school days was a sack full of notes picked from the waste paper baskets at the Jefferson school, presumably by Robert Graham, principal; the only civilian secret not revealed was how long Graham had to watch the waste baskets to pick some of the notes, rich in kid humor and pathos.

Introduction of the teachers was assigned to Robert Graham of the grade school, who in introducing each teacher required the teacher introduced to repeat a tongue twister. Gaylord Davies, high school principal, introduced the high school teachers with an appropriate verse prepared by his ghost writer.

Program numbers included group singing led by Larry Levens, a Lions quartet selection with three Lion members, Frank Brown, Larry Levens, Robert Graham and a lone wolf, Cecil Caldwell. Two solos by Mrs. George Hardy, two mandolin selections by Jack McKay, two selections on an electric guitar by L. C. Hart; an accordion duet by Donald Kabler and A. M. Mason with an accordion piano number.

School days with the Rev. A. J. Kammann as teacher was also featured with Frank Brown, Wild Bill Hickok, Joe Crick and W. C. Martin as pupils and with the pupils each bringing a note as to why they were tardy.
