Now we know the part we played in the Philippine invasion

The news of the successful invasion of the Philippines stirred the nation. For it was an amazing achievement—landing great numbers of troops and enormous quantities of supplies thousands of miles across the Pacific.

It was a thrilling triumph for our Army, Navy and Merchant Marine.

We railroaders got a special thrill from the news too, not only because we are Americans but also because we know now that months ago the Philippine invasion started on the railroads. And many a railroader who, in recent months, has worked double shifts to keep the war freight rolling to Pacific Ports, knows that he, too, had a part in putting those men ashore on Leyte Island.

This mighty blow at Japan placed an especially large burden on the Western railroads. Serving a less populated territory, the Western lines normally do not have the density of traffic of the eastern trunk lines, and their trackage was designed accordingly. Yet the western roads, in spite of a manpower shortage, have handled their enormous war burden efficiently and on schedule. Theirs has been a real achievement too.

Since Southern Pacific is the largest Western railroad and serves the major ports of embarkation on the West Coast, a very large portion of the troops and war material destined for the Philippines moved over our rails.

From now on, more and more of America's might will roll West over the railroads for the final showdown with Japan. Southern Pacific's 100,000 railroaders know well how important it is to keep these war trains rolling. But they need help. They need the help of thousands of men and women for this job.

There's a job waiting for you in the supply line that backs up our men in the Pacific. If you want a good job with a company whose biggest job still lies ahead, please visit one of our employment offices, or see your nearest S.P. Agent today.
