Among those who spoke briefly were State Deputy Clarence E. Brown of Eugene, Rev. Valarian O'Leary, Roseburg, and Rev. Albert Rodakowski, Eugene. Rev. Louis Sohler welcomed the visitors and conducted a short religious quiz program. Rev. BEG PARDON, MR. CRAWFORD

In a recent issue of the Sentinel we had L. S. Crawford moving to Eugene and working as an inspector for the West Coast Lumber association. Mr. Crawford informs us that he holds this position with the S P railroad and has held it for the past thirty years and of course we would not want to change him now. The moral of this story is stay in a good town and don't move and such tales will never get out on you.

Farm Population Being Counted in The Farm Census

A count of the number of persons, 14 years old and over, employed on farms in Lane county, is being made by enumerators of the bureau of the census, department of commerce, as one of the principal features of the 1945 census of agriculture now under way. This enumeration will provide information, it is explained by Paul N. Plank, supervisor of the 1945 farm census in this district, on the extent of the farm labor force in this county after three years of war and its drain on the farm population.

The agricultural labor force count now in progress throughout the nation, a statement received by Mr. Plank, from Census Director J. C. Capt at Washington, points out, will provide detailed information on the number of farms in each of the country's more than 3,000 counties related to the number of persons residing in the farm households, and the number of persons employed on farms classified in three groups—farm operators, unpaid members of the operators' families and hired farm laborers.

At the time of the 1940 farm census, five years ago and two years before the entry of this country into World War II, there were 6,096,799 farms in the United States. Of these, 5,321,248 farms reported 9,694,168 persons working, with 5,081,858 farms reporting 7,940,727 members of the farm operators' families working on the farm, while 982,643 farms also reported employment of 1,753,441 persons as hired labor.

According to recent estimates of the Census Bureau the U. S. civilian farm population was 25,700,000 in October, 1944, an estimated decrease of 4,410,000 from the 1940 census total of 30,394,000.
