New Mobil Gas Available Here A new, vastly improved gasoline which was developed during the war, and which surpasses the performance of any gasoline used by motorists in prewar days, was announced last week by Clarence S. Beesmyer, vice president and director of marketing of the General Petroleum Corporation. "This gasoline," Beesmyer said, "will furnish all the power an automobile can use. The new Mobilgas is one of the foremost wartime achievements, and is the result of the world's greatest catalytic cracking program which consumed 12 years of scientific research and a $90,000,000 investment in new refining equipment and facilities. "This tremendous project gave us 'Flying Horsepower' which increased the speed, maneuverability, altitude limit and bomb-carrying capacity of our war planes. This 'Flying Horsepower' has now been incorporated in the new Mobilgas being sold to the public today. By prewar standards, the performance of this new gasoline is spectacular. It permits a fast acceleration, a smooth power-pull, and an instant engine response under all conditions never enjoyed by motorists until now. Yes, the familiar pings, and sluggishness in start and acceleration in wartime automobile engines have become peacetime casualties."
