Bennett Creek Home Brew Back Fires; Our Face Red

Up on Bennett Creek where oil scums are seen on the water and minerals abound, the creek water sometimes packs an awful wallop. The wallop sometimes gets the best of the residents as in the case of M. C. Fuller, who has been helping out in the Sentinel back shop for several months and last week caused him to pull the wrong line in an ad which made the advertiser unhappy.

We got to figuring the other day and calculated where the newspaper compositor has 37,800 chances per page to make errors. The makeup man who does the correcting has at least a third as many chances for errors and of course the one who writes the news and copies the advertising has a few opportunities for errors
