LADIES BIBLE CLASS

Mrs. William Bainbridge and Mrs. Ira Beidler were hostesses Wednesday at the meeting of the Ladies Bible class of the Methodist Sunday school at their all day meeting held in the church. A potluck dinner was served at the noon hour to the eight ladies present. Mrs. Pearl Safley had charge of the devotions at the business meeting. The day was spent in tying a quilt.

D. A. V. MEETS TUESDAY

The Cottage Grove chapter of the Disabled American Veterans met Tuesday evening at the armory with a number from the Eugene chapter as guests. Affairs of the veterans were discussed at a business meeting and the business meeting was followed by an oyster feed which was enjoyed by the local chapter as well as the visitors.

Several short talks were made by the visitors and responses were made by H. K. Metcalf, Norman Aubrey, W. B. Patten and R. C. Hamilton.

V. F. W. AUXILIARY ELECTS

The Auxiliary to Post 3473 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars met in the IOOF hall yesterday at 6:30 for a covered dish dinner. Shares in the quilt were sold and then the quilt was awarded to Chester Myers.

The following were elected to office for the ensuing year: President, Beulah Morgan; senior vice president, Carolyn Hunt; junior vice president, Jean Lamb; secretary and treasurer, June H. Bird; chaplain, Frances Myers; Conductress, Geraldine Craine; guard, Margaret Woodrome; trustees, Elsie Patten, Doris Fraser, Mary McCoy.

Following the lead of the Post the ladies voted to meet twice a month on the first and third Wednesdays of each month.

Installation of officers will take place April 17 with Helen Sherman as installing officer.

Western Aspect

Odesa, Russia, was built by order of Catherine the Great, about the time Washington, D. C., was founded. Like Washington, it was constructed largely on reclaimed swampland and wilderness after plans made by a Frenchman. The first leaders of the new municipality were either western Europeans or were English-educated and gave to Odesa an occidental aspect unknown to other Russian cities.

Outfox Babies

Babies delight in tossing toys out of crib or play pen, then screaming until someone retrieves them. Outsmart baby by tying toys to crib or pen with short tapes.

Farmers' Share In Food Dollar Varies by Years

Considerable confusion continues over the so-called "farmers' share of the consumers' food dollar" says L. R. Breithaupt, O.S.C. extension agricultural economist. This is not strange, he adds, because of the complicated production and marketing processes between the land and the table that are not too generally understood. These production and marketing processes involve costs, of course. Owing to these costs, the net income that remains available to the farm families is only a fraction of national consumer expenditures for food, amounting to about 25 percent last year.

In 1944, United States consumers spent slightly over 30 billion dollars for food. But 50 percent of the total retail cost of food was required to pay processing and marketing charges. Thus gross farm receipts were 50 percent of the consumers' food dollar. Out of this the farmer's production expenses must be deducted.

The net farm income from marketed food products was approximately 25 percent of the consumers' food dollar in 1944, as data indicate that approximately 50 percent of the gross farm income was required to pay farm operation expenses that year.

Usually production expenses amount to more than 50 percent of the gross farm income. According to the data for Oregon, the 1939 ratio was 63 percent while in 1929 61 percent of the gross went for expenses. Over a period of normal years in the past, both marketing and population expenses took greater proportions of the consumers' food dollar than in 1944, leaving less net for farm family income.

Currently, the trend of prices for farm products in relation to production and marketing costs is moderately toward prewar ratios. Should these trends continue, the farm family's net share would again become smaller than one-fourth of the consumers' food dollar, possibly even less than one-fifth as a general average for all farm products.

Considerable variation is found in the shares required for marketing costs and production expenses between different products. These variations are due to various factors, including labor requirements, amount of processing, transportation expenses, and other variables in the production and marketing processes, Breithaupt says.

Once again we can say
"NEXT TIME, TRY THE TRAIN"

At long last we can see our way out of the woods. No longer is there a backlog of veterans waiting for transportation to their homes. The peak movement seems to be definitely over.

We want to sincerely thank all the civilians who refrained from traveling to make room for these men. And we want to point out that now some space is available on some Southern Pacific trains for you who wish to travel.

In other words, we can say "Next time, try the train", but as yet we can't say it very loud.

There is now quite a bit of space available in coaches and chair cars. Sleeping car space is tighter in comparison, but considerably more plentiful than it was, especially on certain trains.

Please call us if you're planning a trip anywhere. We'll do our best to get you the reservations you want.

No time limit on reservations

On and after March 15, you can make reservations as far in advance as you wish. The ODT order requiring you to make them no more than 14 days in advance has been repealed.

Three meals a day!

Dining cars on Southern Pacific trains are now serving three meals a day instead of two.

More improvements on the way

With our heavy war load easing, we will soon speed up trains and return the lounge cars and other refinements in service that we had to discontinue during the war.

Meanwhile we are going full speed ahead with an ambitious program of new streamlined trains that will be the finest the world has ever seen.
