IT'S UP TO US

It's up to us what kind of a community we have, whether our citizens are regarded as law abiding or whether we shall acquire the usavory reputation of being a bunch of vandals or hoodlums or what have you. We refer to the efforts of some of our women to provide wholesome entertainment during the holiday season. For the first time in many years the local Business and Professional Women's club tried to have a community Christmas tree and program. When the Christmas tree was lighted, the lights began to disappear and they disappeared so often that efforts to keep up the appearance was finally abandoned.

Others who tried to have an outside lighted tree met with the same unfortunate experience. Here and elsewhere what might be termed the work of vandals seemed to be on the increase. Apparently the missing lights was the work of juveniles. If such juveniles were hungry or in need, theft of food or clothing might be overlooked, but to be destructive for the sake of destroying is something that we have never been able to fathom in the young human nature, most especially if the youth has had the proper upbringing.

We often hear the expression, 'why can't we do this or that or why can't we have this or that." The work of the women's club was clearly an effort to bring something constructive to the community. Yet how was this effort rewarded?

When dirty work goes on at the cross roads, lots of people ask "where are the police?" We hold no brief for any officer, but we realize that what officers we have can't be everywhere at once. We might add a few more officers to the local police force, but when tax paying time comes around we imagine most of us notice the difference and would set up a howl. Since we have lived in communities of this size we have noted that there has been considerable beefing at times about how inefficient the police force was. But perhaps the complainers never stop to think that any time an officer becomes efficient enough to satisfy the popular clamor, he is good enough that the large cities want him, or the state police or maybe the F.B.I.

Most of us are just ordinary folks, the chances are that Cottage Grove will never produce a president or a man of like calibre. Even so we can be law abiding and still be ordinary folks. Common sense ought to teach us that it pays to be law abiding in more than one way. And when we are law abiding we can usually manage to get along with the officers pretty well. Training in this respect starts in the home.

FOR THE VETERANS

The national government is spending more than ten billion dollars on veterans. Rep. Edith N. Rogers (R-Mass) chairman of the new veterans committee in congress thinks much could be done for the benefit of the veterans and at less cost. In addition to planning more hospital facilities and medical care for veterans, she thinks a substantial sum could be saved by cutting administrative costs. For example it costs the government $40.00 in clerical and legal expense to review a single veteran's case.

An exchange says there has been too much due in production since VJ day.

Future Site of United Nations Headquarters

The "world capital" of the future—the permanent headquarters of the United Nations—will be built in these six mid-town New York blocks between the East River (right) and First Ave. (left). An $8,500,000 gift from Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and cooperation of New York City Authorities made the selection possible, ending U.N.'s year-long hunt for a home site.

THOUGHTLETS

By Earl B. Balch

We get all worked up because Russia is suspicious of the United States and the United States is suspicious of Russia. Can we expect anything else when in this country, labor and management are suspicious of each other.

The distinguished news commentator, Fulton Lewis Jr., referred to the early scenes in the opening session of the senate of the new congress as "The Battle of Bilbo" and called the affair "degrading".

Perhaps if more of us gave more thought to investing our lives instead of investing our money, we would live better lives.

No carpenter ever thinks of building a house without sufficient tools but many a professing Christian tries to build his religious life with insufficient tools.

Church membership for the sake of popularity, to say the least, is shallow, empty and worthless.

Construction is much slower than destruction. A noble structure that takes months to build may be swept away by fire in a few short hours. In the same way a reputation that takes a life time to build, may be instantly swept away by a word of blistering slander.

Some people who will sob over the sorrows of a heroine in a motion picture drama are callous over the sufferings of their neighbors.

Surplus Carrots Excellent Poultry Feed Bennion Says

At present feed prices chicken and turkey producers in Oregon can afford to pay $12 to $15 per ton for carrots to use as poultry feed, says Noel Bennion, extension poultryman at Oregon State college. A surplus of carrots in some sections of the state has brought questions concerning their use.

Carrots are highly desirable for supplemental feeding for chicken or turkey breeding flocks especially, Bennion explains. They are an excellent source of vitamin A which is essential for high egg production and hatchability. A deficiency of this vitamin is indicated also by sore eyes, nutritional roup and susceptibility to respiratory infections.

Carrots are fed whole to poultry. Turkey breeding hens will readily consume 20 to 30 pounds a day for each 100 hens, while laying hens will eat 5 to 7 pounds a day for each 100 birds, along with their regular breeder mash and scratch grains, Bennion adds.

Lithography Born

A washing list provided the key to the invention of the art of lithography. When Alois Senefelder, the inventor, lacked a piece of paper to write a washing list, he wrote it with greasy ink on a smooth stone. He then practised writing in reverse, transferring it to paper and the art of lithography was born.

After listening to the President's message before the eightieth Congress, according to this humble columnist, the speech was one of vigor and unequivocation, whether we agree with it or not.

GRANGERS SHAPE THE PATTERN of OREGON'S DEVELOPMENT

Thirty thousand people who know where they're going can do a lot of good for themselves and for the state in which they live.

There are 30,000 members of the Grange in Oregon. They and their families are members of some 400 local Granges throughout the state. They conduct regular, well-attended meetings. They own Grange halls. They have millions of dollars invested in farms and equipment. They are alert to social, agricultural and civic betterment.

They are members of an organization nearly as old as the state of Oregon. They work here, live here, dream here—for the constructive programs that shape the pattern of Oregon's development. Not just for their benefit, but for the good of all Oregonians.

Grange achievements that have made Oregon a better state in which to live:
- ✓ R. F. D. Routes
- ✓ Direct Election of Senators
- ✓ Cooperative Marketing
- ✓ Better Roads
- ✓ Improvements in Education
- ✓ Graduated Income Tax
- ✓ Improved Marketing
- ✓ Low-Cost Light and Power
