Back Seat Drivers
As last, some one has a kind word for back seat drivers. The National Highway Users conference's safety department contends that this much maligned individual can help cut the nation's death and accident toll. In cases where the driver makes a mistake, remonstrance by the passenger might have checked the carelessness or undue speed. Still, on the other hand, too much advice or criticism can make the driver nervous or irritable and affect his judgment. The back seat driver must use his head too.

Finds Crater Lake
A miner in a vain search of a fabulous lost mine, discovered one of the world's greatest scenic treasures in June, 1853, when his sure-footed donkey stopped at the very brink of Crater Lake. The lake, resting in the crater of an ancient volcano, is six miles across, 2,000 feet deep, surrounded by crater walls 2,000 feet high. A national park since 1902, this area is being visited by tens of thousands of visitors during 1948, Oregon's territorial centennial year.

Howdy Folks; Over in Lorane a farmer is reported to have fed his cows bird seed so he could sell cheap milk.
They tell, also he has a helper so clumsy he's always getting in the whey.
We could even go farther and say he had a duck that got smaller and smaller. He grew down.
Daisy Dope laughed and laughed when some one told her evaporated milk came from a can. She said no one could fool her, she knows it comes from a dry cow.
They say that cows give milk. We always found you had to take it from them.
We DO give service. You won't have to take that from us.
Give us a chance to prove it.
