nothing is more precious or more priceless than the eyesight of your children.

Children—active, energetic, full of the spirit of bubbling youth—skirt the razor edge of tragic accident so many times. And if they wear glasses, the danger is doubled.
Their eyesight cannot be purchased. It is more valuable than all the diamonds and rubies. For once lost, eyesight can never be restored.
And that is why we have added the new and completely unbreakable I-Gard Lens to our regular prescription service. These lenses represent a most important development in eye protection. Because they are particularly suited to the needs of children, we commend them to the attention of all parents.

Earl Newbry Will Support School Bus Safety Laws
Secretary of State Earl T. Newbry Monday announced his office will support legislative proposals aimed at greater safety for Oregon's 60,000 bus riding school children.
A bill to be introduced to the state legislature would require drivers to stop when meeting or overtaking from either direction any school bus loading or unloading passengers, transfer bus inspection to the state department, and provide for adoption of standards for construction and maintenance of busses and training of drivers.
Present Oregon law allows drivers to pass school busses loading or unloading passengers, at a speed not exceeding 15 miles per hour. The stopping requirement is in effect in nearly three-fourths of the states, and is in line with the uniform motor vehicle code recommended by all national safety agencies and school authorities, Newbry said.

Europe Raises Wood Production, FAO Reports

GENEVA—Production and export of timber showed a marked increase in several European countries during the first six months of 1948, compared with the same period of 1947, figures published here jointly by the Timber Committee of the Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) and the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (ECA) show.
France shows the largest increase in the output of sawed softwood during the first half of 1948—a gain of 76 percent to a total of 559,000 standards. Austria comes next among the reporting countries with an increase of 19 percent to 137,600 standards.
Sweden, the report adds, was the largest exporter of sawed softwood during the period with 128,900 standards, a 70 percent increase. Austria's 33,400 represents an increase of 114 percent. Finland was the second largest European exporter reporting 95,200, an increase of six percent.
In the Western Hemisphere, Canada's exports of 574,409 standards were approximately equal to those of the previous period. The United States showed a decrease of 40 percent, exporting 145,000 standards.
No figures were received on the total softwood output of Finland, the USSR and Yugoslavia, which were among the largest producers of softwood in Europe.
The two leading European producers of sawed hardwood—excluding the USSR and Yugoslavia, which were not reported—are France and the United Kingdom with 23 percent and 22 percent increase respectively.

Inflation of Tires

It's the air in the tire that carries the load. No tire can give satisfactory service unless it is the correct size and type, and correct air pressure is maintained. Every tire represents a fine balance of forces created by the air pressure within the tire and the resistance of the cord body and other component parts of the tire to this air pressure. Whenever the air pressure is either greater or less than that recommended, this balance is upset and the result is premature failure due to abnormal stresses and strains set up within the tire.
