Wonderful Winter Coats

Wool duvetyne with lynx cuffs.

By VERA WINSTON

A WONDERFUL DIVERSITY, of style, detail, color and fabric, marks the fur-trimmed coat section of this winter's wardrobe regardless of the price bracket. Indeed, some of the nicest coats of the season are not the most expensive, but those that use a small amount of fur in a tasteful way. Wine red wool duvetyne is used for this coat made with a simple rolled collar above the single breasted closing. There is nice enrusted detail at either side forming slit pockets at top. The lynx cuffs add a distinctive touch.

He originated designs for a sideboard evolved from the three-piece arrangement of side table and two pedestals which Adam had employed. Heppelwhite influenced English cabinet-making from 1760 to 1800.
