WE'VE MISSED THE BOAT SEVERAL TIMES

Every now and then we hear stories of how this section of the county has missed out on some new industry because apparently the people were rather hostile to the idea or lacked interest in the proposal...

And that is the trouble of being a little fish in a little puddle of water. The would be industrial captains may slip in and slip out on a private investigation tour...

We suspect too that if our community isn't as desirable as it should be that we can't lay the fault on anyone but ourselves. There has been a lot of beefing in years past...

WATER

Oregon newspapers are getting a lot of propaganda on the water feud between Arizona and California as to whether the proposed $738,000,000 proposed appropriation of the Central Arizona project is really essential...

As a matter of fact most localities even in western Oregon are having their water troubles and the lack of water has been plaguing a number of localities...

Rebuilding the distribution system should be done without too much delay to encourage property owners to plant and maintain lawns as well as to assure an adequate water supply for fire fighting.

FREE TRADE

Free trade, that once-bright world ideal, is just about dead. Its death knell was sounded last week by Sir Stafford Cripps in announcing England's plans for meeting another one of its economic crises.

Under the Marshall Plan, the ideal of free trade was promoted. Consistent with this ideal, the U. S. recently lowered the tariffs on some 3,500 items for foreign nations to market on these shores...

Sir Stafford's actions, as described in newspaper headlines, seem very remote to the average American. But they are not remote or meaningless. They are as grim realities as a drought or a flood...

TEACHER TROUBLES

In a Reader's Digest condensation from the school bulletin as it appeared in the Portland Oregonian, Miss Wilma Morrison, school editor charges that teachers are selling their profession short.

"Miss Morrison does not refer to complaints about wages, but to the 'dismal, I-have-given-the-best-years-of-my-life-and-look-what-I-got-out-of-it' moaning."

"Chief among complaints is that the public ignores the teacher and regards him or her as without status in the community. Yet teachers should realize, Miss Morrison states, that by having children entrusted to them they hold a 'magic key' to the hearts and homes of their neighborhood."

"On the salary question, Miss Morrison holds that $200 a month 'looks like a nice fat sum to young people starting to teach.' It is more than they could get in advertising, retail sales or journalism, she points out."

Letters to the Editor

Cottage Grove, Oregon July 13, 1949

Dear Sir: Possibly I am not informed as to what constitutes gambling. But it seems to me that the dice and marble games at the recent Carnivals should be classed as such.

Your paper carried the ad of the Imperial Exposition shows Saturday matinee nine cent rides for children. I heard one child spoken to very rudely because he was not quite twelve and said so.

Of course I can stay at home and keep my children there too. But I believe a protest should be registered. We have too many worthy projects which need our support to allow so much money to be taken away by passing carnivals.

Thank you for your time and space.

Yours truly, Ethel Miller
