London 4-H Mothers Have All Day Meet At Club House Oct. 12 (Delayed)

London 4-H Mothers club met for a covered dish luncheon and all day meeting at the club house, October 12, with nine members and four children present. At the business meeting following the luncheon, and conducted by Esther Banton, president, correspondence was read from the Cottage Grove Hospital board, concerning election, October 20, and progress on the new hospital which will require Federal funds, if available, before it can become a reality. The club is a contributor to the original fund.

The quilt of Barbara Banton was finished during the afternoon and a new quilt will be put in at the next meeting, October 26 for Jeanne Morton, an elaborate pieced daffodil pattern in pastel yellow, white and green, a future wedding gift for her niece "Pitty Pat", Melinda Carlson.

Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Roby were housekeepers.

Lane County Farm Program Notes

More Cover Crop Seed Needed

More seed of winter cover crops is urgently needed in this country, say officials of the Production and Marketing Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. They reached this conclusion after consideration of the report of the survey made by state PMA committees. These committees estimated the amounts of these and other grass and legume seeds which farmers will use if seed is available at reasonable prices.

Over 72 million pounds of Austrian pea seed will be needed in 1950; that is an increase of more than 46 per cent over the 49-million pound 1944-48 average production. More than 48 million pounds of hairy vetch will be needed — nearly 185 per cent greater than the 5-year average commercial production of 17 million pounds. Around 24 million pounds of crimson clover seed will be required — an increase of almost 70 per cent over the 5-year production and 34 per cent more than the large 1949 crop. If production next year equals the average of the past five years, we will have about enough common and Willamette vetches and common rye grass.

To encourage seed production, price supports have been established by the government on the basis of parity prices on April 1, 1950. If those prices are the same as the computed parity or comparable prices on July 15, 1949, the average support prices for clean bagged seed will be: hairy vetch, 13.54 cents per pound; common and Willamette vetch, 6.34; crimson clover, 16.03; common rye grass, 7.09; Austrian winter peas, 4.62; blue lupine, 4.53; and rough peas, 6 cents per pound.

U. S. Imports Grass Seeds

Grass seeds are being imported into the U. S. in sizable quantities reflecting the small current harvests of the important hay and pasture seeds in this country.

Imports, which normally vary from year to year, are more important this year than usual, William J. Enschel, member of the Oregon state PMA committee, explains, because of the damaging effects of last winter's freezes in the Pacific Northwest. Drought and excessive rainfall in other producing areas, as well as hay shortages which have led farmers to cut their crops for hay instead of leaving them for seed, have combined to reduce seed harvests to abnormally low levels.

Seeds imported from other countries during July and August included New Zealand, 224,000 pounds of Chewings fescue and 11,800 pounds of Bentgrass seed; Australia, 231,500 pounds of Dalis, 11,200 pounds of fescue, and 11,200 of Rhodes grass; Cuba, 84,100 pounds Bahia grass; Ireland, 44,800 pounds perennial ryegrass; Denmark, 234,000 pounds meadow fescue. Normally the U. S. is an exporter of meadow fescue seed. Canada, which normally furnishes many agricultural seeds, also had short seed crops and furnished only 28,400 pounds of Brome grass seed.

Alsike Seed Moves Fast

Alsike clover seed has been moving fast this year, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported recently.

Alsike seed was moving twice as fast this year as last in the eastern states. It had hardly begun to move in the late-producing states. For the country as a whole, the movement was faster than average. Growers' prices on August 15 were $26.33 per 100 pounds for clean alsike seed.

Lime Spreading Ends

During 1949, Lane county farmers cooperating with the Agricultural Conservation program applied a total of 1929 tons of bulk agricultural limestone to acid soils in the county. A large proportion of this was spread by the Agricultural Lime Distributing Company, who has spread lime in Lane county since 1947. Three or four operators secured lime and spread it themselves.

Approximately 1300 acres received an average application of one and one-half tons of lime per acre during the year. Of this tonnage, some 1880 tons qualified for payment under the current Agricultural Conservation program. In general, lime cost the operator $10.50 per ton in the valley communities with the cash cost to the operator of $5.50 per ton at time of spreading.

In preparation for lime spreading in 1950, Lane county farmers are advised that not all soils need lime application. The crop to be grown is very important. Legume crops on acid soils are very definitely in need of lime while some of the grasses on the same soil will not obtain appreciable benefit from lime application.

The way to be sure of lime needs before spreading time is to bring a soil sample or samples into the county agent's office, Public Market building, Eugene. An acidity and phosphate test can be run at the same time and the results, with recommended rates and times of application, if needed, will be mailed to the operator.

Lime needs for 1950 should be determined early so tonnage to be spread in July, August, and September will be determined early and not delay orders from the lime plants. Most of the 1949 lime spread in the county came from the Roseburg plant and some late in the season from the Valley Lime Co. at Gazelle, Calif. Local Farmer Committees Get New Name

The state office of the Production and Marketing Administration announced today that the elected county and community farmer committees that administer PMA programs in their local areas will henceforth be known officially as Production and Marketing Administration committees. They were previously called Agricultural Conservation committees.
