Realty Views

It's true: We can't look at a frog and tell how far he'll jump. But we are frequently called upon to judge whether a person will succeed in a business venture.

Many is the time the office door has opened, and someone has asked "What do you have in the way of business opportunities for sale?" Invariably we reply "What type of business?" The answer nearly as often, is "Any kind, just so it's making money."

Right here our service begins. After considerable discussion we arrive at the two or three kinds of business in which he seems to have a good chance to succeed. There are no cut and dried formulas. It is a problem involving "know how," capital, experience, health and ambition. But no matter how tough, we try to solve these problems and guide our customer to success.

The statistics are in our favor. Most of the ones we have helped have made good.

Let us help you find the right kind of business. We will do a good job even if our knowledge of frogs is limited.
