Enjoying The Sun

LOOKING TANNED and well rested, President Harry S. Truman gives the cameramen a big smile as he leaves his fishing boat, "The Big Wheel" at Key West, Fla. Although the Chief Executive's fishing was not too good, he managed to catch plenty of sunshine. (International)

Nitrogen Vital Factor in Crop Production Here

Nitrogen, an essential plant food, is often the limiting factor in Oregon crop production, assert two O. S. C. extension service soil conservation specialists in a new extension bulletin, number 699, entitled "Nitrogen Fertilizers" which describes characteristics and uses of most common nitrogen-bearing commercial fertilizers.

The specialists, Leroy E. Warner and Arthur S. King, state that for many years the use of legumes and barnyard manure were the principal methods used in increasing or maintaining the soil nitrogen supply. Both materials are still good, they emphasize, but commercial fertilizers carry nitrogen in a readily available form which can be used with profit on most crops.

Reasons for using nitrogen fertilizers, the specialists write, include these: Nitrogen stimulates growth of non-legumes, increases the active organic matter supply of the soil by speeding decomposition of dead roots, helps get new legume seedlings started before they are able to take nitrogen from the air, and it aids in rotting straw and other crop residues.

Fertilizers discussed in detail include ammonium sulphate, ammonium nitrate, 16-20, 11-48, urea, sodium nitrate, calcium nitrate, cyanamid, anhydrous ammonia, and aqueous ammonia.

Pure ammonium sulphate contains 21.2 per cent nitrogen; 27.5 per cent sulphur. Ammonium sulphate is an acid residue fertilizer and thus increases the acidity of soils, the authors point out.

This acid condition may, however, be corrected by the addition of lime.

A brief description is also included of such organic nitrogen fertilizers as dried blood, meat meal, bone meal, and other by-products of the packing industry.

Copies of the bulletin are available through county extension offices or by writing direct to the college.

Criticism is the child and handmaid of reflection. It works by censure, and censure implies a standard.

Handy Standby Garden Bulletin Revised Again

Memo to vegetable gardeners: an old favorite garden folder of yours—Farm and Home Vegetable Garden, extension bulletin 614—has undergone its "umpteenth" revision.

The author, A. B. Bouquet, longtime Oregon garden authority and professor of vegetable crops at O.S.C., says the bulletin has been brought up to date. A copy is awaiting you at your local county extension office. Or, write direct to the college, being sure to note the bulletin title and number on your postcard.

That handy planting calendar is included again. In fact, about the only change Professor Bouquet has made in it is to substitute new vegetable varieties for those which have been surpassed and are no longer his recommendations.

Forty-one different vegetables are listed, and at least one recommended variety for each is given.

The folder tells you when to plant, depth of seeding, distance between rows and plants, and most important, when you can expect to eat something from your own garden. The garden planting table has been made out for a family of five and suggests number of feet of row space or number of plants for all common vegetables.

You can adjust the planting table, of course, to fit your own family's size, desires, and amount of space in your garden plot.

For those of you who are trying a garden for the first time, Bouquet has suggested a garden planting plan. He says a plan is important to get the most out of your garden. If you just plant the seeds and plants any old way, you may have tall plants shading out low growing plants. That's not good.

Dr. Bouquet has taken two pages in his folder to talk about vegetable crop production. He details some of the tricks he knows which will make your garden grow better and produce more in 1950.

NAVY TO TRAIN 6,000 NROTC COLLEGE STUDENTS IN SEA, AIR AND SUBMARINE DUTIES

The navy will train approximately 6,000 NROTC college men this summer aboard various ships of the Atlantic and Pacific fleets and at the naval air station, Pensacola, Florida; naval amphibious base, Little Creek, Virginia, and the marine corps schools, Quantico, Virginia.

The college students, who are midshipmen of the naval reserve officers training corps in 52 colleges and universities throughout the country, will receive diversified training—ranging from submarine and aviation indoctrination to general shipboard duty and amphibious landings.

24 BOARDS WILL CONSIDER 32,000 FOR PROMOTION

Twenty-four naval reserve selection boards have been scheduled to convene during 1950 to consider officers for promotion to the grades of lieutenant, lieutenant commander, commander, and captain.

During this calendar year approximately 32,000 reserve officers are eligible to be considered for promotion. Last year, about 23,000 reserve officers were recommended for promotion.

NO FATALITIES

Pacific Greyhound Lines reported today that not one bus passenger fatality occurred during the company's 1949 operation in seven western states. In that year the company's bus fleet operated 94,236,158 actual miles and an estimated 2,117,531,397 passenger miles in California, Arizona, Oregon, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico and Texas.

Justly to discriminate, firmly to establish wisely to prescribe, and honestly to award—these are the true aims and duties of criticism.
