Thurs., June 15, 1950 The Sentinel, Cottage Grove, Oregon Page 7

and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bartels Sr. Tho the weather was rainy, a gay atmosphere, beautiful decorations of roses and white carnations, a turkey dinner with two birthday cakes and canasta for recreation made the occasion memorable.

At least the third portable sawmill constructed by Latham men or a former resident is that now in operation at the R. V. Hawley place. Mr. Hawley constructed the mill in his shop during winter season when work was slack presumably for sale but decided to use it to have his own timber cut. Vern Doolittle and Reuben Hultbury operate the mill in its entirety and those who know place it as very efficient in its class. Other portable mills that have been in operation for sometime are those of Lester Yearous, now of Gowdyville and Fred Harris.

Gilbert and Everett Yearous are with the National Guard at Fort Lewis for encampment.
