OREGON-AT-LARGE: Legislative nominees John Steelhammer of Salem and Moro editor Giles French have been burning up county roads, each lining up votes to make himself Speaker of the House, completely oblivious of the fact that there is a possibility dryman Rudie Wilhelm has some spontaneous support which could make him a compromise choice.

SUN VALLEY, IDA: Idaho's famed "Mecca of the Stars" resort is being rivaled in its claim as a locale for celebrities by Southern Oregon's Rogue River valley.

COTTAGE GROVE, ORE: Unique in generosity and thoughtfulness are Cottage Grove's No. 1 citizens, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Woodard. They gave a brick library to their city—with no strings attached. They just said, "Go ahead—use it often and wisely. It's your library."

McMINNVILLE, ORE: Captivated to fame are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Trent since the alert McMinville Telephone-Register published their candid brownie shots of flying saucers soaring over their farmyard. National mag and movie newsreel photos, as well as reporters, have descended like locusts on their farmstead.

JOHN DAY, ORE: The nest of the newspaper "Blue Mountain Eagles" in John Day is one of the best equipped, best lighted and inviting plants of any weekly in the whole West.

ALWAYS take along a companion when swimming distance. ALWAYS enter water gradually.

DON'T eat before swimming. DON'T dive into shallow water.

RED CROSS uses Betty Jane Bruce of Philadelphia to warn about swim precautions. (International)

With the Granges

HEBRON GRANGE NEWS
 Hebron grange at its meeting Saturday night voted to postpone the next regular meeting, one week, until Saturday, July 22. The serving committee will be Mr. and Mrs. Wes Saunders and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robbins.

Nellie Harris, delegate to State grange, gave a very interesting report of the meetings. Everyone present greatly enjoyed the very good and entertaining program, which was presented by Martha Roy, youth chairman.

Mrs. Ellen Sherrill, county youth chairman with her three daughters, were guests.

Construction of Independence Hall in Philadelphia was started in 1732, and the structure was finished in 1759.

Combination Editor-Senator Elmo Smith, who owns this scrappy paper, comments when complimented on his shop, "I always hated working in coal mine surroundings myself and I just figured my help felt the same way."

ALBANY, ORE: Albany Jaycees who journeyed all the way to Chicago for the recent Jaycee convention were bitterly disappointed when barred from the big parade. It seems the Windy City Fathers were afraid the weight of the big 4-ft. log they had brought from Linn county might crack the Wigley plaque on their pet bridge if they allowed the Albany loggers to participate.

Note: The now world-famous Timber Carnival, July 1, 2 and 4, with contests in topping, bucking, chopping and speed climbing, is unique in the world and brings the real logger's life to the city people. The pageant is put on near Waverly lake on the highway.

JOHN DAY, ORE: Sign in front of a neat farmstead on the road between Mount Vernon and John Day is headed with the name Dale, and underneath hang individually labelled slats, each representing a Dale child: Phillip, Doris, Karen, Marilyn, Linda, Jean, and Nancy. Each time the need arises, a new slat is added to this expandable sign.

The idea of labelled slats is fast becoming a family trademark, being used on the Dale Christmas cards too.

COOS BAY, ORE: Blind Carl Taylor has his own furniture upholstery plant in North Bend—the only one in the country run under such circumstances. Philosophical about his handicap and perfect in his work, Carl supports his family and goes about his thriving business just as though he were not the unusual man he is.

Note: He should meet Dr. M. C. Parsons of nearby Myrtle Creek, the blind doctor who is having such remarkable success. They would have much in common.

MILTON, ORE: "He didn't know they were comin', but he baked a cake anyway." A surprise anniversary party honoring Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Knopp of Milton was a double-barrelled surprise for Mr. K. The four-tiered anniversary cake their friends served at the affair was baked by Eddie himself. It had been ordered from Knopp's bakery, and all the while Eddie thought he was baking someone else's wedding cake instead of his own anniversary cake.
