Serve Cooling Fruit Cocktails

By ALICE DENHOFF

COOLING, pleasing, healthful; that's the fruit or vegetable cocktail served as the prelude to a spring or summer meal, and as a pick-up at any time of year. Served with hors d'oeuvres or canapés before dinner, it makes a first course.

Healthful and happy is a combination of grapefruit juice and prune juice. To serve 8, use 2 c. fresh or canned juice, add a cup of prune juice, and then add one to 2 tsp. honey, depending on sweetness of grapefruit juice. Shake with ice until the container is frosty. Serve at once. For dress-up, add a green minted cherry.

Decorate With Cherry

For another concoction use 2 c. grape juice, one c. orange juice, tsp. lemon juice, 2 whole cloves, thin slice of lemon peel. Shake with ice. Serve in cocktail glasses decorated with a maraschino cherry. Serves 8.

Refreshing and nourishing is a piquant lime cocktail. It takes juice of 2 limes mixed with 2 tsp. honey and 2 c. orange juice, then add one whole egg white. Shake well with ice for 2 min. Half fill cocktail glasses and fill up glass with leed ginger ale.

Currant Juice

For something different and delightful by way of a drink mix one c. currant juice with one c. raspberry juice. Shake with ice. Serve with a triangle of candied orange peel in each glass. Makes 6 drinks.

For something with a bit of a bite to it serve sauerkraut juice: To prepare 6 healthful cocktails, mix one pint of sauerkraut juice, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. paprika, 1/2 tsp. salt. Shake with ice. Serve as once. A pickled onion or a stuffed olive adds an extra touch to each glass when served.

Clam juice makes the base for a different libation. To serve 6, shake with ice one pint clam juice, thin shaving of lemon peel, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. lemon juice, dash of pepper. Serve with a thin silver-like paring of lemon peel in each glass. For a variation, shake with ice one c. clam juice, one c. tomato juice, tsp. lemon peel, 1/2 tsp. salt, dash of paprika. Serve with a stuffed or ripe olive in each glass for variety. Makes 6 portions.
