THE GYPPED GENERATION

This week we print our first story of local reservists who have been called back into active duty. We're afraid there will be many more stories just like it in the weeks to come...

As we talk to fellows who may or may not be members of the reserve organizations, the impression we get from everyone is the same—"It's only a matter of time before I get called."

Let us think for a moment in terms of generations, a generation being roughly 20 years. One generation of American men had to take care of the fighting in the Spanish-American War...

But what has happened? The third generation has been double-crossed. Young men who have just made their start in business and a family are being told to go back into uniform...

We are told that the use of U. S. troops in Korea is merely a police action. As soon as we chase the Oriental delinquents back to their own side of the tracks, so say world leaders, then we'll have peace once more.

How long will this peace last? Suppose Chinese Communists invade Formosa? Are we going to be policeman there, too? Or should we worry about first things first?

You'll probably say we sound rather bitter at this point. Maybe so, maybe no. The point is that someone along the line has let us down. Unfortunately, the past cannot be changed, so we'll have to accept the situation as it stands.

But if the United States is going to be policeman for the world, we'll echo the sentiments of all the other young men of the gyped generation who are resigned to their fate:

"Give me my billy stick, Uncle, and let's get this d—n thing over with."—K.C.

FORGET POLITICS FOR A WHILE

The public would feel a good deal better about the Korean situation if we could feel with any certainty that when an administration spokesman makes a statement about the war effort that the spokesman could forget for a moment that there is an election coming up in November.

We will also have to go along with the statement made by some writers and anti-administration forces that the present policy of spoon feeding vital information to the public to avoid political repercussions has incultated a lack of confidence in the administration statements.

We are not sure but that such a policy encourages hoarding and other actions which do not help the war effort. The disappointing factor for which the public must be blamed is the fact that many will look on the present situation as a time for making money.

Ralph T. Moore writing in the August 5 issue of the Oregon Voter expresses the sentiment of a good many people when he states:

"The President's inspiring speech on the current war situation would have been more effective if past experience had not alerted the Congress to the strong possibility that Trojan Horse of war emergency measure concealed heretofore disappointed socialistic aspiration. Mr. Truman faces the great test of his career, one that will determine his place in history. If he can overcome a lifelong habit of deferring to the exigencies of partisan politics and measure up to the demand for integrity of purpose and devotion to patriotic duty...

Senate sponsors of the proposal to lend $100 million to Spain argued for it on the grounds that Spain is strategically located and also is anti-Communist.

Several years ago the United States "loaned" money and war material to Russia because it was anti-Fascist. Today the United States is being paid back—in Korea. Does the fact that someone is opposed to our enemy make that person our friend?

We applaud Senator Morse for opposing the loan to Spain.—K.C.

Two Rosicrucian books have been donated to the Cottage Grove public library. It was announced this week by V. R. Dalberg, local member of the Rosicrucian order.

The donation was made by the order as a result of several requests from local readers that the books be made available to the public. The books are, "Lemuria," by Winifred S. Corve, and "Rosicrucian Questions and Answers," by Dr. H. S. Spencer Lewis.

More Rosicrucian books will be added if public interest creates the demand.

NEBRASKANS WILL GATHER. Former residents of Nebraska are reminded to attend the annual picnic at Jantzen Beach park in Portland Aug. 13. It will be sponsored by the Nebraska State Society of Oregon and Washington.

A picnic dinner will be at noon. The program will begin at 2 p.m. followed by athletic events. Prizes will be awarded. Former Nebraskans and friends are invited.
