Strapless Swim Suit

Flattering and functional.

By VERA WINSTON

THIS year's swim suits are both pretty and practical. They look charming and they are really functional—which hasn't always been the case. This one, of chartreuse colored nylon satin lastex, has a strapless top, as shown here, but also comes provided with an extra halter strap for serious swimming. The well-moulded bustline is marked by a strip of lattice work. The same detail also runs down the side.
