The stock show alone will offer $58,074 in premiums, with an additional $6,000 for land products, $8,788 for Juniors and $1,700 for college judging contests.

Deadline for horse show entries is Sept. 15, stock show Sept. 20 and halter classes Sept. 25.

Rodeo prizes will total $22,000 of which $11,735 will be posted by the Pacific International Horse Show awards will be about $26,000. Cutting Horse owners will get $1,800, plus entry fee.

New OSC Students Will Be Given Arithmetic Tests

Oregon State College—Something new in placement tests during new student week this fall will be the giving of arithmetic and mathematics placement tests to practically all entering students.

Heretofore mathematics tests were given only to those planning to take mathematics courses.

Need for an arithmetic test for other students has become increasingly apparent, says Dallas Norton, personnel coordinator, as students have been handicapped in chemistry, business and technology and many other courses through inability to handle simple fractions.

Some have been able to use algebra better than arithmetic, instructors report.

These and other placement tests do not bar anyone from entering college but they do indicate what "tool courses" need to be taken to insure success in a student's chosen field, says Norton.

New student week starts this year on Sunday night, September 17, with a general assembly. Preliminary admissions are about comparable to those of a year ago.

Under present draft regulations students actually enrolled may be deferred to the end of the academic year.

Enlisted women in pay grades three through seven in general and emergency service ratings of Teleman, Radioman, Communications Technicians, Yeoman, Personnelman, Machine Accountant, Storekeeper, Aerographer, Training Devices Man, Aviation Storekeeper, Hospitalman and Dental Technicians, only, will be accepted.

Polio Won't Defer Schools Opening

Public schools throughout Oregon will open their doors on schedule this month, despite the higher rate of infantile paralysis in the state, Rex Putnam, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, said today.

"There is no call for postponement," Putnam told officials of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis who agreed with him that classes should be resumed at the time previously set for the close of summer vacation.

The state board of health reported that the 33rd week of 1950 brought the year's highest incidence—29 cases—raising the total since January 1 to 127. There were 78 cases in the state during the corresponding weeks of 1949, which was Oregon's fourth worst polio year. The 29 cases in the 33rd week were reported from 13 counties.

"Certain precautions should continue to be observed at home and school, but the assembling of pupils under one roof is not regarded in itself as hazardous," Joe F. Kievit, Portland, state representative of the National Foundation, declared.

Tips Given for Sewing Woolens By OSC Leader

As insurance against loss of fit, pre-shrink all woolen yardage goods before cutting into them, reminds Miss Lucy Lane, O.C.S. extension clothing and textiles specialist, who offers the following sewing tips for use with hard-to-sew wool jersey.

When the shrinking process is finished, locate the rib of the jersey on the right side of the fabric. This, the specialist says, is the side that is folded inside when you purchase the yardage.

Now, locate the natural straight of the goods by laying a ruler along a continuous rib. Mark this rib with a basting thread of contrasting color.

Make sure to lay the straight of the pattern on this continuous rib. This places the grain line in the correct position in order that your garment will hang well. It may also keep the jersey from curling if you lay the pattern on the right side of the jersey, Miss Lane adds.

Before stitching edges of the jersey, it may be necessary to stay the edges with either hand or machine stitching to keep them from stretching.

A sharp needle, suited to your thread, mercerized size 50 or 60, will aid in sewing. Recommended length of stitching is 14 to 16 per inch. Loosening the tension also aids frequently in sewing jersey.

In starting to sew, feed the jersey evenly under the machine foot, being careful to avoid pulling or stretching. It may be necessary to sew on light weight paper, particularly on bias or curved edges if you find the jersey pushes ahead under the foot.

Pinked edges are usually satisfactory for seam finishes.

Light reinforcement for front facings in the form of fine muslin or taffeta gives an extra thickness for snaps, buttons and buttonholes. Seam tape is preferable for hems rather than the turning under of the edge of the fabric.

The pre-shrinking may be accomplished by cleaners or by a home method, the specialist concludes.
