To make sure nothing was missed, the first frost that skipped over the valley, Sept. 27, with a low of 28 at Sam Medfords place, Wednesday morning, continued for five nights. The process was quite complete, with gardens and flowers gone for this year.

Red hats and flannel shirts met the chilly dawn on Saturday as hunters poured forth in local hills to open the deer season. The biggest hunt was that of company employees only, on private property of Woodard Lumber Co. Hunters, however were limited to those on call for fire fighters in case the slash burn got out of control. Quite a few deer were brought out opening day.

Gene Campbell was especially elated to get a five-point buck on Cedar Creek in a hunt with his father, P. M. Campbell, Saturday afternoon, since he is leaving for the service Wednesday.

A party was given for Gene at the Jess Hill home last Friday with over fifty guests in for the evening. The Hebrew Christian Church presented him with a leather bill-fold with his name as a going-away gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Funk spent the opening of hunting season in eastern Oregon, going over Friday and returning Sunday. They were unsuccessful.

Monte Kuskie got a deer opening morning, right near home up Cougar Bend.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Long and family expected to move this week to the Latham community to be nearer Mr. Long's work at Drain.

Mrs. Lisie Small has been under the weather the past three weeks. Sunday she practically held open house as many of her friends called. They found she was feeling better.

Mrs. Norman Kennedy and new baby daughter, 7 lb. 10 oz. Gail Ann, this week are with her mother, Mrs. E. M. McEwen of Cottage Grove. The baby was born Saturday in Cottage Grove. Mrs. Kennedy's family gathered at the McEwens Sunday to greet the new arrival.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Einsted and baby moved to camp Sunday from Cottage Grove. Mr. Einsted is an engineer.

L. E. Bechtold has done a great job of clearing the scenery over his way this summer, cleaning out brush along the creek so his family can see out and others can see in across his fields.

Mr. Ploff is clearing and burning in the door yard of his new house. Altho the house is not completed, the big fireplace is finished and most days he has a flickering fire on the hearth as he dishes out hospitality to friends and visitors who come to call. Work on the house is being held up for materials.

A large, long-haired, golden tanned dog has done the undependable in the community and has been chasing sheep. He may be just a stray or maybe some neighbors dog that should be kept at home. He is a pretty dog but has not been identified.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cantwell of Cottage Grove, and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. McEwen of London went to Portland on business Sunday, and while there attended church.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Kelly and party returned Monday evening from hunting near Crescent in eastern Oregon at Silver Lake. They were unsuccessful and report very few deer going out from there.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sibley and son Eldon returned Monday evening from hunting near Paisley in southeastern Oregon, the most successful of any party so far. Mrs. Sibley brought down the first game, with Eldon getting the next. Mr. Sibley didn't score but he could have... they report the deer were swarming. The weather was cold and a skiff of snow.

Bob Blackwell gets around a little farther and faster than most in his private plane, even for going hunting but is not any more successful. He tried La Grand last Sunday and expects to try Lapine next week end.

Linda Savage, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melton Savage, is recovering from a case of whooping cough. Fortunately the other children of the family have had it.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper Casler have spent a busy summer on their hill ranch. They tried raising lima beans this year but the season proved too short. The successive frost the past week ruined the Hello, Scouts and Brownies, and a happy autumn to you! This is your column to use for all Girl Scout events, past, present and future.

Now that summer with its Day Camp (which by the way, was tops in the whole council area again) and camping trips to Blue Pool forest camp, and the coast, and that unforgettable Camp Clearwax, is over, we are looking forward to coming indoors with a full program.

First, let's give a bouquet to Cottage Grove's own district chairman, Mrs. Robert Gamage, who, although she has no daughter of her own, carries the worries of organization on her shoulders. We need more like her, with or without daughters.

Girl Scouting is a very valuable program (set up by experts from many fields) for girls, to be carried out by their mothers. In this council, thanks to the Community Chest, there are three paid advisors for an area that takes in the whole county and serves 2000 girls. Get the picture and you see that for every participating mother-crop of about thirty bushels. Ice froze a quarter of an inch thick.

London School

The first film was shown on the new London school movie picture machine at a school assembly Monday. A repeat showing was made Monday evening for the parents and visitors. Another showing will be made soon when another film is obtained, with announcement made in advance. A demonstration was also given by the sixth grade pupils on information they have learned in their study of Mexico.

Mary May entered school last week in the third grade, a new pupil from Sweet Home.

Joe Parton returned to school from Medford where he has been staying with his grandparents while his mother recovered from injuries suffered this fall in a car wreck near Elkton.

There will be no school Thursday or Friday when teachers go to Springfield for the usual October work shop.

Mrs. E. M. McEwen received word recently of another granddaughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Leland Hall of Caldwell, Idaho, on Sept. 26, Mr. McEwen's birthday. This makes two new granddaughters in a week, giving the McEwens six granddaughters and six grandsons.

The Glen Banton place was "all-lit-up" Monday night as fire wardens lifted the ban and permitted burning of slashing and brush.

Dick Garman brought home a four point buck from eastern Oregon Monday night from a hunt in the Crescent area at Melwich Springs. He was accompanied by Earl Van Dusen of Lebanon and Tommy Labsher of Cottage Grove.
