

Gloria Clark is Bride at Gardena

The Calvary Baptist Church wedding chapel at Gardena, California, was the scene, Dec. 8 for the wedding of Miss Gloria Clark of Los Angeles, formerly of London, to Robert J. Clark of Gardena, California. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Boyd T. Clark of Culver City, California. She was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Boyd Clark, as matron of honor, and Miss Jane Archer, a close friend.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother-in-law, Wayne Moore, as best man, and Dean Maxson, a close friend was usher.

The bride's gown was a floor-length white tulle tulle tulle, made with close fitting long pointed sleeves and slightly plunging v-neckline, with roll collar and short train. Her fingertip veil was of lace trimmed nylon net and fell from a coronet of white artificial violets. She carried a white orchid in shower effect with bouvardia, on a white Bible.

The matron of honor wore a floor-length two-piece gown of moss green tulle, with a headband of ivy and yellow ribbon. She carried a bouquet of trailing ivy and yellow ribbon.

Miss Archer wore a similar gown of yellow tulle with headband of ivy and moss green ribbon.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Edward F. Clark, wore a dress of teal green tulle, with a lavender orchid. The bride's parents were unable to attend the ceremony.

Little Miss Janet Simson, a cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl in yellow tulle with net overskirt.

The bridegroom's little sister Linda and cousin, Carolyn Swain, lighted the candles.

The chapel was decorated with white ribbon streamers, white candles and sprays of ivy, lining the aisle and candelabra and large bouquets of white glads, yellow and white chrysanthemums and trailing ivy decorated the altar.

The double ring ceremony was performed by G. Randolph Dickson, minister of the Church of Christ at Hawthorne, Calif. Wagner and Mendelssohn's wedding marches and wedding music were played by Mrs. Dorothy McDowell, Soloist, John Anderson, sang "Because" and "God Touched the Rose."

At the reception which followed the ceremony, the three-tiered wedding cake was cut by Miss Mary Frances Ruggerio, a friend of the bride. Punch was served by Mrs. Wayne Moore, sister of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom majored in pre-engineering at Pepperdine college in Los Angeles for two years and is now associated with his father, who is a contractor. The bride, a Cottage Grove high graduate, is now a senior at Pepperdine college, and plans to graduate in June. She is majoring in home economics.

Following the reception, the bridal couple took a week end trip to San Diego, and into Mexico. They are now spending the two weeks Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Clark at London. After the holidays, the couple will reside at 2701 Manhattan Beach Blvd., Gardena, California.

SP Officials Claim Record Haul, Lumber Products Since 1947

Southern Pacific Co. officials Monday said at Portland the railroad had hauled more carloads of lumber and other forest products from Oregon sawmills since 1947 than ever before in a comparable period, despite nationwide car shortages.

This statement was made in a review of the Oregon railroad car supply situation filed by Southern Pacific Co. with the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, D. C., in response to a petition of West Coast Lumbermen's Assn. for an investigation of the S.P. freight car service.

The review said boxcar loadings on S.P.'s Portland division increased 5.2 per cent in the first 10 months of 1950 over the same period in 1949. The increase in all other divisions was 4.3 per cent, the company said. The figures, it was reported, do not include refrigerator or livestock cars which were furnished for lumber loadings.

Shippers in the Portland division loaded 141,666 carloads of lumber in the first 10 months of 1950 compared to 137,905 carloads in the same period of 1949, the railroad's summary stated.

TOASTING GIVES FILBERTS EXTRA DELICIOUS FLAVOR

Toast filberts for extra flavor. This tip comes from Mrs. Rosa B. Connell of Reedville. As both a filbert grower and a good cook, the Washington county woman has dozens of recipes which feature filberts. In cakes, breads, candies, puddings and salads—in fact, wherever nuts are called for—Mrs. Connell uses this Oregon product.

She especially likes to spread grated filberts on top of pumpkin or apple pies about ten minutes before the pies are ready to be taken from the oven. Even her custards receive a sprinkling of chopped filberts during the last few minutes of baking. When the nuts are exposed to direct heat in this way, however, pretoasting is not necessary.

At the close of the evening refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Duffy, Mrs. May Wilson and Mrs. W. Hilbert.

Watch Out for That Frost!

By ELEANOR ROSS
COMES the warm weather and the refrigerator really does get a workout. But whether it does a fine job, no matter the age of the machine, depends upon the service and care it receives.

If you want to give the refrigerator the best of care, you'll watch the frost on the evaporator (where you keep the ice trays) and you'll never let it get more than a quarter of an inch thick. When the frost piles up beyond that depth, it's high time to defrost, unless of course, you are the proud possessor of one of those new automatic-defrosting jobs.

In Hot Weather
Here's how to defrost the refrigerator the quick way; the only sensible way to tackle the job when the weather is hot and energy low. First, turn off the refrigerator or turn to defrost. Remove ice trays and all food and empty ice cubes into ice bucket or bowl. Place tray or pan under frosting unit to catch frost and water. Fill empty trays with hot, hot water, return to freezing compartment. If trays are the waxed, quick-release type, use some other container which will fit in the unit (hot water may melt wax). Or place large pan of hot water just below freezing unit.

If you are in a big hurry, it is all right to speed up the removal of the frost by pulling it off with your hands, but never go after it with a sharp instrument. Change water in trays to speed up defrosting.

Rub With Cloth
When frost is gone, sprinkle freezing unit with baking soda and rub with a damp cloth, then rinse and dry. Then give the entire machine a real cleaning. A soda-water bath is your best bet. Use three tab'spoons baking soda to a quart of warm water. Baking soda makes a quick, easy and economical cleanser, we have found. It sweetens as it cleans, removes the greasy food-odor film that clings to the interior of the refrigerator, even the ice trays, for ice trays collect food odors just as the walls of the refrigerator do.

To further check food odors, wipe the outside of bottles and jars with a cloth rinsed in soda-water, before returning them to the refrigerator. If you are the fortunate possessor of one of those new automatic defroster jobs, don't overlook the cleaning job. A once-a-week cleaning with baking soda and water will keep it in tip-top shape—sweet and fresh-smelling.

Holiday Traffic Will Be Heavy, So Take It Easy

Joint warnings of heavy traffic, snow and ice-covered roads, and other dangerous driving conditions during the Christmas holidays were issued today by Governor Douglas McKay and Secretary of State Earl T. Newbery.

As Governor McKay urged the wholehearted cooperation of residents with law enforcement officers in the campaign to save

Eye Casualties
Latest estimates indicate that about 160 industrial workers in this country are blinded by eye injuries, while 1,600 others lose the sight of one eye.

"Eye for Color"
The ladies have a better eye for color, no matter what the men say about gift-neckties. Faulty color vision occurs in about ten times as many men as women.

Omelets
Left-over vegetables make a novel addition to omelets.

Phoenix Rainfall
The yearly average rainfall in Phoenix, Arizona, is only 7.74 inches.

"There's only a single available and—my, how I wish I could take it myself!"

lives during the Christmas holiday, rather than waste them. "I earnestly hope," McKay said, "that each resident of our state, and each visitor, will assume individual responsibility for avoiding accidents of all kinds. If we do this we really can keep the Christmas spirit—and all of us—alive this year."

This week end sees the beginning of an almost continuous week-long holiday, Secretary Newbery reminded. With two successive three-day holidays for most residents, many Oregonians will take long and dangerous trips over unfamiliar roads to visit relatives and friends. Unless cautious driving is exercised by all motorists, the crowded roads could make the holiday season one of highway slaughter.

December, the secretary remarked, is always a potential black month for accidents. Last year 50 persons lost their lives in December highway mishaps. With the year's fatal accidents already numbering well-above those of 1949, December might push 1950 into a new traffic killing record, the secretary concluded.
