Here Are Ways to Survive In Case of Atomic Attack

Six survival secrets for atomic attacks are listed in the official government booklet, "Survival Under Atomic Attack," which is issued by the National Security Resources board, are as follows:

1. Try to get shielded.—If you have time, get down in a basement or subway. Should you unexpectedly be caught out-of-doors, seek shelter alongside a building, or jump in any handy ditch or gutter.

2. Drop flat on ground or floor.—To keep from being tossed about and to lessen the chances of being struck by falling and flying objects, flatten out at the base of a bank.

3. Bury your face in your arms.—When you drop flat, hide your eyes in the crook of your elbow. This will protect your face from flash burns, prevent temporary blindness and keep flying objects out of your eyes.

4. Don't rush outside right after A-bombing.—After an air burst, wait a few minutes, then go help to fight fires. After other kinds of bursts, wait at least one hour to give lingering radiation some chance to die down.

5. Don't take chances with food or water in open containers.—To prevent radioactive poisoning or disease, select your food and water with care. When there is reason to believe they may be contaminated, stick to canned and bottled things if possible.

6. Don't start rumors.—In the confusion that follows a bombing, a single rumor might touch off a panic that could cost your life.

KILL THE MYTHS

The booklet, "Survival Under Atomic Attack," further advises: "Atomic weapons will not destroy the earth—Atomic bombs hold more death and destruction than man ever before has wrapped

Oregon Rose Stock Grades Revised

New grades and standards for Oregon rose stock went into effect January 10 and replace standards adopted in 1937, according to the state department of agriculture's division of plant industry.

The new grades and standards follow the recommendations of the American Association of Nurserymen for rose stock. Three grades—No. 1, No. 1½, and No. 2—are established for these roses: tea, hybrid tea and everblooming; rugosa and rugosa hybrids; hybrid perpetuals, moss and miscellaneous bush roses.

Two grades—No. 1 and No. 1½—are now recognized for floribunda roses, polyantha-baby roses and climbing roses.

Full details of grade requirements may be obtained by writing to the state department of agriculture at Salem.

up in a single package, but their over-all power still has very definite limits. Not even hydrogen bombs will blow the earth apart or kill us all by radioactivity.

Doubling bomb power does not double destruction—Modern A-bombs can cause heavy damage 2 miles away, but doubling their power would extend that range only to 2½ miles. To stretch the damage range from 2 to 4 miles would require a weapon more than 8 times the rated power of present models.

Radioactivity is not the bomb's greatest threat—In most atomic raids, blast and heat are by far the greatest dangers that people must face. Radioactivity alone would account for only a small percentage of all human deaths and injuries, except in underground or underwater explosions.

Radiation sickness is not always fatal—In small amounts, radioactivity seldom is harmful. Even when serious radiation sickness follows a heavy dosage, there is still a good chance for recovery.

FIVE KEYS TO HOUSEHOLD SAFETY

1. Strive for "Fireproof house-keeping"—Don't let trash pile up, and keep waste paper in covered containers. When an alert sounds, do all you can to eliminate sparks by shutting off the oil burner and covering all open flames.

2. Know your own home.—Know which is the safest part of your cellar, learn how to turn off your oil burner and what to do about utilities.

3. Have emergency equipment and supplies handy.—Always have a good flashlight, a radio, first aid equipment and a supply of canned goods in the house.

4. Close all windows and doors and draw the blinds.—If you have time when an alert sounds, close the house up tight in order to keep out fire sparks and radioactive dusts and to lessen the chances of being cut by flying glass. Keep the house closed until all danger is past.

5. Use the telephone only for true emergencies.—Do not use the phone unless absolutely necessary. Leave line open for real emergency traffic.
