Creswell Wins Two From Monroe Team

By Dee Burns
The Creswell Bulldogs posted a double victory over the Monroe Dragons during the holidays. The first one was on the Creswell floor, Wednesday, December 26. The second was played at Monroe Friday, December 28.

First victory came when the Bulldogs scored a 42 solid points to Monroe's 26. Eddie Graham led the Bulldog attack with 14 points.

When the Bulldogs played at Monroe, it looked like it was going to be a different story at first. Monroe made a quick start, but the gas ran out as the Bulldogs evened it up at 9-9, then forged ahead, never to be threatened again.

Decker led the Bulldogs to a 39-23 victory over the hard fighting Dragons of Monroe.

Creswell is to play Lowell at Creswell January 4. It will be Creswell's second conference game.

The Bulldogs are undefeated by any other school as yet. They dropped a practice game to Hewitts of Eugene, but it was not held against them.

Creswell's New Year

CRESWELL—Creswell has entered upon the new year with her usual stride of faith in the coming months in spite of turmoil abroad in the world. Students have returned to their work in the various colleges and local young folk are back at their classes. The teachers have returned from their vacations with renewed spirits and determination to make this year the best ever.

The store staffs have been deep in inventory for several days. Some business houses were closed for a time while others struggled through figures while waiting on customers. Some merchants say that the trade this holiday season was much below former years, due in part probably to the reduction in pay checks during the long dry fire season in the woods and the recent curtailment of work when snow was deep in the hills.

Trimings have been put away for another year and New Year's greetings are heard on every side with a deep prayer for universal peace in 1952.

The local correspondent would like to add her best wishes to every one who has sincere thanks to all those who have contributed news and advertising. May we do even more this year to tell folks what a grand little city we have.

NEW YEAR'S PARTY

CRESWELL—A company of 65 enjoyed a New Year's watch night party at the Grange hall Thursday evening. The youth committee of the Grange was in charge and provided a very pleasant time for all who attended. Oscar Alexander provided some of the music with his accordion, while others assisted with the music for the games. Refreshments were served in time for everyone to shout the New Year's greeting.

WATCH NIGHT PARTIES

CRESWELL—Mrs. L. I. Chestnut entertained her class of the Presbyterian Sunday school at a watch night party at her home Monday evening. Games were played and a waffle lunch was served to Beverly Mawson, Karen Simmons, Judith Gwyther, Edna Roseberry, Dorothea Henry, Judith Skaggs, Beverly Brundage, Dale Sperry, Doris Pettijohn and Velva Green.

Mrs. Ross Bradford, director and members of the MYF of the Methodist church held a watch night party at the church annex Monday evening. Games and refreshments were followed by devotions at the midnight hour.

JOHNSTONS HOSTS TO DUCK HUNTERS

CRESWELL—Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Johnston held open house for duck hunters Sunday, at any rate so it seemed, for Bob Carlie, Ray Denham and Ralph Woslaugh, all of Cottage Grove were taken to the Johnston home, dried off and warmed following a dunking in the Willamette east of town near the big bridge. The men started out above Cottage Grove with their guns and other equipment to get their limit of ducks but all they got was a good wetting besides losing their guns and boat. The boat struck something in the river and turned over. Two men managed to make their way to shore while the third clung to the overturned boat until he had drifted some distance down the river and was rescued. Following the call for help a large crowd gathered at the river to watch the rescue.
