Strawberry Crop Attracts Pickers

Thousands of Pickers will be called into Oregon's strawberry fields during June for what is expected to be one of the largest Harvests in the history of the state. Reports from 28 local offices to the Oregon State Employment service here say from 50,000 to 60,000 workers will be needed to cover 17,000 acres at the height of the picking about mid-month.

Although recent warm weather advanced the early crop rapidly, only a few scattered yards have started work.

Largest classes in history, totalling 220 students, were graduated in ceremonies recently at Cottage Grove Union high school and Jefferson school. Following are the lists of graduates:

The world renowned Clyde Beatty heads the long list of stars and features in the most daring wild animal display ever conceived and performed by man. Supporting him is the cream of the sensations from the outstanding continental circuses, including such names as Con Colleano, Toreador of the Tight Wire; the Eriksons, the Al Hanel Troupe, the Joannides and the famous Flying Harolds. Performance will be given at 8 p.m.

Walter Martin Appears as Soloist In Cantata June 5

A chorus of 20 voices from the University of Oregon Music school together with a chamber orchestra, will present Johann Sebastian Bach's Cantata #21 on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church.

This cantata, which is entitled "I Suffer With Great Heaviness," was written for the third Sunday after Trinity. It is one of approximately 250 cantatas which Bach wrote for the Lutheran church in Germany. These cantatas are something like short oratorios, and are of a dramatic character, for soloists, chorus, and orchestra. One of these was performed each Sunday in the Lutheran Church in Bach's day. This particular cantata consists of four choruses; recitations and solos for tenor, solo for soprano, and duet for soprano and bass. Solo passages occur also in the choral numbers.

The soloists are Miss Exine Anderson, soprano, assistant professor of voice at the University of Oregon; Miss Sue Carlton, contralto, university student; Lowell Chase, tenor, graduate of the university; and Walter Martin, senior at the U. of O.

The program is presented for the interest of the general public, and is open to all without charge. An offering will be taken for the benefit of Music Scholarship Funds. It is a rare opportunity, as this beautiful church music is not often presented in our day.

The neighbors arrived with packages all done up in "Pink and Blue." Dog collars, dog dishes, dog biscuits, dog bones, and all sorts of things for a dog. If anyone needs dog collars, I think Albert has some to sell.

Budget Election

probably have to be tabled until spring of 1953 when another budget group meets. Because of the charter limitation that states taxes to be raised for the general fund cannot exceed 1 per cent of the assessed valuation, the general fund had to be pared about $11,000 to get within this limitation.

Council at a recent session voted to put amendment of this limitation up to the vote of the people in November. The League of Oregon Cities has called local limitations "antiquated" with Cottage Grove named probably one of the last or the last city in Oregon to retain such a limitation. The state's 6 per cent limitation supersedes this and is actually what citizens vote on.

Better Distribution

In answer to cries that the general fund will get too large with the lifting of restrictions and the pouring of surplus from all funds into it as is the custom at the end of the fiscal year, it may be said that no council is going all out for a budget bigger than the people will stand. And surplus is merely deducted from the amount of taxes to be collected the following year. The amendment will allow more equitable distribution of expenses throughout all funds and allow the city to keep or hire competent help at the going wage paid in other cities of its size.

In the final analysis citizens have the vote and can turn down any budget in the future they think is too high.

In spite of the fact that employees do not get a wage raise under this budget, the way has been paved for possible raises next year, and the council has said that this budget is the best the committee could prepare under the present system.

(For complete details see printed budget elsewhere in this issue.)
